Police holding man for burglary spree

BY MIKE FLYNN

A Washington C.H. man is being held in city jail in connection with a chain of residential burglaries which occurred while the occupants were sleeping early Monday on the east end of the city.

Washington C. H. Police Chief Rodman Scott said burglary charges were expected to be filed later today against Donald P. Foxworth Jr., 19, of 703 Church St.

Scott said Foxworth is being held in connection with five residential burglaries in addition to an attempted house burglary, tampering with an automobile and larcenies from two autos.

All five residential burglaries and three of the other offenses occurred within a three-block area on the east end of Washington C. H.

Foxworth was apprehended at 2:39 a.m. Sunday by Washington C. H. police officers Mike Stritenberger and Larry Mongold when they responded to a suspicious person complaint in the vicinity of the reported offenses.

Scott reported the homes of Harold Speelman, 853 Church St., Robert A. Munn, 1220 Cornell Drive, John Morris, 793 McLean St., Charles C. Sheppard, 824 Church St., and Glen Baker, 6 Winnepeg Plaza, were burglarized overnight.

All occupants of the homes were in bed when the burglaries occurred, the police chief said.

An attempted burglary was staged at the residence of Marion Dale Dunn, 758 McLean St. A window screen had been removed, but there was no evidence to indicate entry, Scott said.

Additionally, an auto owned by Donald Hanes, 864 Church St., was tampered with, and items were stolen from autos belonging to Lloyd R. Gilpen, 721 Campbell St., and Dunn.

A number of Washington C. H. police officers were involved in the investigation of the chain of residential burglaries. The officers were assisted in the investigation by an agent from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation in London.

A total of $15 in cash was stolen from a wallet inside the Speelman residence. Entry to the residence was gained through a window screen.

While police officers were patrolling the area, Munn advised them his home had been entered. His wife's purse, containing $2 in cash, had been ransacked. Entry to the home had been gained through a screen patio door.

The Morris residence was entered through a rear patio door. The house was ransacked, according to the police reports, and $8 in cash was stolen from Mrs. Morris' purse which was located on a dining room table.

Entry to the Sheppard residence was gained through an unlocked garage door. A total of $8 in cash and credit cards were stolen.

Police officers said the Baker residence was entered after a window screen in the garage had been removed. Nothing was reportedly stolen.

While police officers were investigating the chain of burglaries, Hanes discovered that his auto, parked in front of his Church Street residence, had been ransacked. Nothing was taken from the 1966 model auto.

Gilpen had parked his auto in the rear parking area at Hidy's Foods, Columbus Avenue, and when he returned from Sabina with a friend he discovered that eight 8-track country and western music tapes and a speaker had been stolen.

A portable radio was stolen from Dunn's auto while it was parked in the driveway of his McLean Street residence.

State solons on call for energy bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State lawmakers, instead of heading for the vacations many had planned, are on call this week to return to the capitol to finish action on a major state energy bill.

The measure was rushed through the House 82-1 just before midnight Friday when both chambers had planned to recess until Sept. 10. But the Senate insisted the measure would be studied before that chamber acts. It adjourned until next Thursday afternoon. The full membership of the House could return the same day.

Rep. A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, emerged as sponsor of the bipartisan measure which represented the first real compromise of the year between the Democrat-controlled legislature and GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Rhodes earlier had vetoed a Democratic energy bill, in part because an agency it created would consist partly of legislators. He maintained that to have them as voting members of an executive branch agency would be unconstitutional.

The energy agency provided for in the compromise bill reflects a compromise on that issue. Five voting members would be named by the governor, and four legislators, if the bill is approved, would serve as ex-officio, or nonvoting members.

Otherwise, the bill provides that the agency can approve grants and loans to help gas burning industries convert to coal, and assist in the development of coal gasification facilities and technology.

Another prime purpose would be a tax abatement scheme to help Ohio win the big Coalcon gasification facility, to be built with federal backing, away from other states competing for it, including neighboring West Virginia.

Lancione defended the speed with which the House approved the bill — the committee which recommended it 13-0 met only about 10 minutes — by pointing out that it actually represents a consolidation of legislation already pending. "We'd heard them all before. This just brings them into one bill," he said.

Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasak, D-27 Akron, and Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, chairman of the Senate Energy and Environment Committee, disagreed that the measure had enough study. "For us to act on a bill of this magnitude in a single day would be irresponsible," said O'Shaughnessy, whose committee will consider the bill, money and checks for bank deposit at the time of the incident.

A total of $975.89 in cash and $1,582.76 in checks were stolen.

An intensive investigation into the incident is being conducted by Washington C.H. police officers.

The Anschutz family reported to the investigating police officers that the man was wearing a tinted motorcycle helmet to hide his face, black gloves and olive-drab coveralls.

They further described the armed robber as approximately 25 years of age, 5 feet, 7 inches in height and weighting about 150 pounds.

Police are petitioning the aid of any person observing a man dressed as described seen in the area late Saturday or early Sunday.

Nickel will still buy coffee, or perhaps a few peanuts

By The Associated Press

You can't ride the Staten Island ferry for a nickel anymore, but the five-cent piece hasn't entirely lost its value.

Among the things turned up in an Associated Press spot check of items that still cost only a nickel are:

—A chance at the jackpot in one of the 64 per cent of Nevada's 47,000 slot machines that take nickels.

—About 2½ tablespoons of peanuts from a vending machine in Alabama. (The same machines used to provide about a tablespoon for a penny so five cents is a big increase, but it's a nickel nonetheless.)

—A cup of coffee at the Last Chance cafe on Interstate 80, west of Reno.

—A local telephone call in Wapakoneta and Cridersville, Ohio. (Wapakoneta's other claim to fame is that it is the hometown of astronaut Neil Armstrong.)

—A "Swiss warbler" bird whistle at the Party Center in the Ala Moana shopping center in Honolulu. (The Party Center is a real bonanza for nickel spenders. Other five-cent items include balloons, elastic cords for masquerade masks and plastic spiders, six for a nickel.)

The most-famous of the five-cent bargains was probably the Staten Island ferry, but New York City's fiscal crisis killed the nickel ride.

As of 12:01 a.m. today, the round-trip fare went to 25 cents under legislation passed by the City Council a little more than a week ago and signed by Mayor Abraham Beame on Friday.

Actually, you haven't been able to ride the ferry for a nickel for some time. That's because you had to buy a round trip.

Japanese terrorists hold consul hostage

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Terrorists seeking freedom for Red Army fanatics jailed in Japan stormed the U.S. Embassy in Kuala Lumpur today, seized U.S. consul Robert Stebbins, 43, a Swedish diplomat and other hostages. Japan said it would meet their demands.

The terrorists shot and wounded three security men during the takeover, threatened to blow up the building but let a self-declared deadline pass without incident.

"We have decided to follow what the Kuala Lumpur terrorists are demanding," a spokesman for the office of Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Miki said in Tokyo. Miki is currently in the United States, preparing for talks with President Ford.

"We made the decision to secure the lives of the hostages, but the final action will be subject to the intentions of the Malaysian government."

The spokesman said preparations were being made on the release of seven prisoners from Japanese jails, as demanded by the terrorists. Meanwhile, Japan Air Lines was preparing a special plane to carry the seven to Kuala Lumpur and pick up the terrorists for a flight to wherever they want to go.

The exact number of terrorists and hostages was not immediately known. Diplomats said earlier there were four to six terrorists, and that in addition to the American and the Swede, the hostages included Australians, Malaysians, a Japanese and a Singaporean who had gone to obtain visas at the U.S. Embassy's consular section.

The terrorists fired occasional shots from the building housing several embassies, wounding two policemen and a guard. Their conditions were not known.

A note dropped from a window said the terrorists demanded the release of seven Red Army men jailed in Japan, a helicopter to take them from the roof of the building and a Japan Air Lines plane to fly them to an unnamed destination.

Shortly after the deadline expired at 5:30 p.m. local time (6 a.m. EDT), V. Manickavasagam, Malaysia's communications minister, arrived at the building and said the terrorists had agreed to meet him. He said the government instructed him to hold talks with the raiders after an emergency cabinet meeting.

Malaysian government sources said the terrorists were insisting on holding negotiations with the Japanese government through the Malaysian authorities.

Malaysian officials met with the U.S. Embassy's acting head of mission, Robert S. Dillon, and Japanese Ambassador Michiaki Suma, to discuss the situation.

U.S. Embassy officials said earlier that "four to six" raiders threatened to detonate explosives in the building if their demands were not met.

A Washington C.H. man is being held in city jail in connection with a chain of residential burglaries which occurred while the occupants were sleeping early Monday on the east end of the city.

Washington C. H. Police Chief Rodman Scott said burglary charges were expected to be filed later today against Donald P. Foxworth Jr., 19, of 703 Church St.

Scott said Foxworth is being held in connection with five residential burglaries in addition to an attempted house burglary, tampering with an automobile and larcenies from two autos.

All five residential burglaries and three of the other offenses occurred within a three-block area on the east end of Washington C. H.

Foxworth was apprehended at 2:39 a.m. Sunday by Washington C. H. police officers Mike Stritenberger and possibly with amendments, before it is presented on the Senate floor.

A bill passed by the Senate, if only slightly different, still would require a vote of the full House on concurrence. For that reason, House members were asked to be ready to return.

A deadlock over differences could send the immediately effective emergency act to a joint conference committee, delaying the end of the summer session further.

In other actions during Friday's marathon deliberations, the legislature completed passage of a bill hiking unemployment compensation benefits from a maximum of $114 to $150 a week. Also enacted was a measure providing about $823 million, mostly for capital construction projects for higher education and mental health, in the next two years.

The $823 million includes some operating funds that were vetoed by Rhodes in the two-year appropriations bill. Among those were $130 million for Aid to Dependent Children subsidies, $15 million for programs for the mentally retarded, a special $10 million subsidy to help the University of Cincinnati become a full fledged state institution, and $5 million to help start up the energy agency called or in the upcoming energy bill.

"We made the decision to secure the lives of the hostages, but the final action will be subject to the intentions of the Malaysian government."

The spokesman said preparations were being made on the release of seven prisoners from Japanese jails, as demanded by the terrorists. Meanwhile, Japan Air Lines was preparing a special plane to carry the seven to Kuala Lumpur and pick up the terrorists for a flight to wherever they want to go.

The exact number of terrorists and hostages was not immediately known. Diplomats said earlier there were four to six terrorists, and that in addition to the American and the Swede, the hostages included Australians, Malaysians, a Japanese and a Singaporean who had gone to obtain visas at the U.S. Embassy's consular section.

The terrorists fired occasional shots from the building housing several embassies, wounding two policemen and a guard. Their conditions were not known.

A note dropped from a window said the terrorists demanded the release of seven Red Army men jailed in Japan, a helicopter to take them from the roof of the building and a Japan Air Lines plane to fly them to an unnamed destination.

Shortly after the deadline expired at 5:30 p.m. local time (6 a.m. EDT), V. Manickavasagam, Malaysia's communications minister, arrived at the building and said the terrorists had agreed to meet him. He said the government instructed him to hold talks with the raiders after an emergency cabinet meeting.

Malaysian government sources said the terrorists were insisting on holding negotiations with the Japanese government through the Malaysian authorities.

Malaysian officials met with the U.S. Embassy's acting head of mission, Robert S. Dillon, and Japanese Ambassador Michiaki Suma, to discuss the situation.

U.S. Embassy officials said earlier that "four to six" raiders threatened to detonate explosives in the building if their demands were not met.

Weekend crashes fatal to 27

By The Associated Press
Ohio motorists matched their worst traffic record of the year over the weekend just ended.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reports 27 persons were killed, the same number that died over the long Memorial Day weekend.

The worst previous nonholiday weekends were the second and third weekends of July, each of which claimed 17 lives.

Decision to die brings mail flood

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — When Chuck McCracken made the decision to unplug himself from his life-saving kidney dialysis machine, he said he wanted to die "peacefully and quietly." But the McCracken household has been bustling ever since his story got worldwide attention.

Last week, his home was invaded by television crews, and broadcast and print media from as far away as London have been in contact with the McCrackens every day since he made known his decision to die.

"We had no idea that this would blossom into such worldwide coverage," McCracken said Sunday.

The 36-year-old McCracken, who had to leave his job as a television repairman when he lost his vision eight years ago, has diabetes and suffers from a diseased thyroid. Last March, he lost the use of his legs.

Given only a 30 per cent chance of living for one year even if he continued the dialysis treatment, McCracken "put the matter in the hands of Jesus."

He made his decision to die on July 22, saying the dialysis treatment — in which a machine filters wastes from the blood — was "sheer agony for me."

He told his doctors at Loma Linda University Medical Center of his decision and went home to face death in the solace of his family.

McCracken said his doctors predicted he might not live past his 37th birthday next Tuesday.

Since his story became known, there has been anything but solitude for McCracken, his wife, Barbara, and their four young children.

"We're getting so many calls, lots of them from kooks," said Mrs. McCracken. "We've had calls that ask us to try everything from mineral water to acupuncture. There are those who want to pray for my husband, and some people have called saying he should turn to God. These people just don't understand the complications in his case."

McCracken says he is not angry about the flood of calls and letters in his last days, even those that accuse him of "copping out" because of his decision to reach out for death.

"I am not a cop-out," McCracken says. "I'm not running away from the misery and agony. Sometimes in moments of great pain and agony, I have contemplated suicide briefly, but that would be a sin. The Lord wants you to live and I could never do that. That would be a cop-out and running away from reality."

Ford may approve arms for Yugoslavs

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Ford told Yugoslavia's President Tito today he will give "my very personal attention" to a Yugoslav request that it be permitted to buy second-line American arms and spare arms parts.

Appearing with Tito to fill in reporters on the results of their talks here, Ford said he also would give attention to economic relations with this independent Communist country.

The Yugoslav leader, in turn, said he essentially agreed with a call by the U.S. President for moderation and flexibility in seeking a Middle East settlement.

Neither man took questions, but Ford went over the agenda of the business sessions the two leaders have had since his arrival Sunday night.

"We did discuss, of course, bilateral relations between Yugoslavia and the United States," Ford said. "These included, of course, economic relations and of course they included our military relations."

Ford, who is in Yugoslavia to boost that country's strongly independent position in the Communist world, then added: "I will give both matters my very personal attention because of their significance."

The possibility that the United States might supply spare parts and other arms to Yugoslavia emerged after a visit here last November by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Yugoslavia had received $695.6 million in U.S. arms under a program terminated in 1957.

The Soviet Union is Yugoslavia's chief arms supplier, although this country produces much of its own weaponry.

Ford began his day with a before-breakfast swim, had breakfast with Yugoslav Prime Minister Dzemal Bijedic and then drove to Belgrade's Park of Friendship where he placed soil around an eight-foot white fir.

Oil bill failure to bring charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the price of fuel goes up, so will the intensity of blame-shifting by Democrats and Republicans as each side points the finger at the other.

In the final hours before Congress left last week for a month-long vacation, the lawmakers put aside their frustrated debate over energy policy and voted simply to continue the present system of oil price controls for another six months.

President Ford is expected to veto that bill when he returns from Europe with the result that price controls on more than 60 per cent of U.S.-produced oil will abruptly end Aug. 31. That oil will be permitted to rise in price from $5.25 a barrel to the unregulated market price of more than $11 a barrel.

By the administration's estimates, the retail prices of petroleum products then will rise gradually, adding as much as 6 cents to the gallon price over an eight-month period.

By taking off the month of August, Congress will not be able to attempt to override Ford's expected veto of the price-control extension measure before the controls expire, although there is some doubt that Congress would succeed in any such override effort.

Administration officials may have given a sneak preview of Ford's expected veto message in their criticism of Congress for failing to come up with an energy program.

Thus, the lawmakers are particularly sensitive about their vacation. Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., told the House in the waning hours before adjournment: "It is an irresponsible and unconscionable outrage against the American people" for Congress to go home without an energy solution. He was booed and hissed by members.

But when Republican Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, used a parliamentary tactic to force an end to work on a Democrat-backed oil pricing bill, there were cheers from both sides of the aisle. Both wanted to call it quits for now.

By The Associated Press
Sunday afternoon showers and thunderstorms across Ohio washed the state's air clean, lifting a four-day air stagnation advisory, the National Weather Service said.

Rainfall ranging from one-quarter inch in Cincinnati to more than a half inch in Youngstown was recorded by the weather service. In some areas, including Columbus, brief, but torrential, thunderstorms rapidly cleared and cooled the air.

A weather service spokesman said somewhat cooler temperatures—highs in the upper 70s and low 80s and lows in the upper 50s and low 60s—could be expected in the coming week. Temperatures in the mid and upper 90s were reported throughout the state last week as a heat wave seared the Midwest and East Coast.

The high pressure center responsible for the poor air condition had caused air pollution warnings and alerts in Steubenville, Canton, Akron, Youngstown, Cleveland and Lake and Geauga counties.

Industries in the Toledo, Cleveland, Steubenville areas were reported to have cut back Saturday to comply with the state antipollution order.

Fair skies Wednesday through Friday. Highs in the 70s and low 80s Wednesday and Thursday and in the 80s Friday. Lows in the upper 50s and low 60s.

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lapsed into another broad and steady decline today in the midst of continuing inflation worries.

Trading was very light.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 7.74 at 818.76, and declining issues outpaced those advancing by nearly a 3-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the primary issue of concern was the uptrend of late in food prices, underscored by a sharp rise in many farm commodity futures this morning.

Louisiana superdome opened

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Watching the opening of the $163 million Louisiana Superdome from seats a dizzying 17 stories up was like watching Mardi Gras from a ferris wheel.

"Somebody's gonna get killed," said a panting spectator who had toiled up the 30 degree grade to the top tier of seats. "It feels like you're falling on your face."

"Just hand me an oxygen mask and let me sit here for awhile," a woman with him said.

"Man, ain't it something," said another man from a nearby seat.

"Exciting space," observed a young architect in the jargon of his profession.

Dixieland musicians down on the floor gave way to the New Orleans Summer Pops Orchestra, which in turn stepped aside for Adler Ledoux's Cajun fiddlers. The Southern University band wound up the six-hour free show Sunday. All of it blared from giant speakers suspended from the stadium's roof 270 feet up.

The musicians appeared ant-sized from the top seats, but six 22-by-26-foot television screens magnified them in close-up color.

Haute couture rubbed elbows with tank tops and cutoffs, youth with the elderly, roaming the miles of ramps, lining up at the portable beer stands under the 13-acre roof.

"It's a typical Mardi Gras crowd," said John Pechon Jr., director of security for the Dome. He estimated that 80,000 people were inside the arena at the peak of the day's action.

Much of the big stadium was locked away from public view: the plush private suites, convention meeting rooms, office spaces. Much of it — an estimated $1 million worth — was still unfinished: escalators and elevators didn't work, ceiling tiles hadn't been installed, and water fountains were dry. The crowd didn't seem to mind.

Cars backed up a half mile waiting to get into the parking garages as others tried to get out, but there were no angry shouts and little horn tooting.

The Dome was four years in planning and an equal number of years in construction. It has been the subject of political controversy and two dozen lawsuits, and its financial dealings have been investigated by federal, state and local authorities. Its cost ballooned from the initial bid price of $93 million to the current $163 million.

The entire Louisiana territory was purchased for $15 million in 1803, but nobody in the Mardi Gras atmosphere inside the Dome cared to make the comparison.

Weekend crashes fatal to 27

By The Associated Press
Ohio motorists matched their worst traffic record of the year over the weekend just ended.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reports 27 persons were killed, the same number that died over the long Memorial Day weekend.

The worst previous nonholiday weekends were the second and third weekends of July, each of which claimed 17 lives.

Decision to die brings mail flood

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — When Chuck McCracken made the decision to unplug himself from his life-saving kidney dialysis machine, he said he wanted to die "peacefully and quietly." But the McCracken household has been bustling ever since his story got worldwide attention.

Last week, his home was invaded by television crews, and broadcast and print media from as far away as London have been in contact with the McCrackens every day since he made known his decision to die.

"We had no idea that this would blossom into such worldwide coverage," McCracken said Sunday.

The 36-year-old McCracken, who had to leave his job as a television repairman when he lost his vision eight years ago, has diabetes and suffers from a diseased thyroid. Last March, he lost the use of his legs.

Given only a 30 per cent chance of living for one year even if he continued the dialysis treatment, McCracken "put the matter in the hands of Jesus."

He made his decision to die on July 22, saying the dialysis treatment — in which a machine filters wastes from the blood — was "sheer agony for me."

He told his doctors at Loma Linda University Medical Center of his decision and went home to face death in the solace of his family.

McCracken said his doctors predicted he might not live past his 37th birthday next Tuesday.

Since his story became known, there has been anything but solitude for McCracken, his wife, Barbara, and their four young children.

"We're getting so many calls, lots of them from kooks," said Mrs. McCracken. "We've had calls that ask us to try everything from mineral water to acupuncture. There are those who want to pray for my husband, and some people have called saying he should turn to God. These people just don't understand the complications in his case."

McCracken says he is not angry about the flood of calls and letters in his last days, even those that accuse him of "copping out" because of his decision to reach out to death.

"I am not a cop-out," McCracken says. "I'm not running away from the misery and agony. Sometimes in moments of great pain and agony, I have contemplated suicide briefly, but that would be a sin. The Lord wants you to live and I could never do that. That would be a cop-out and running away from reality."

Ford may approve arms for Yugoslavs

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Ford told Yugoslavia's President Tito today he will give "my very personal attention" to a Yugoslav request that it be permitted to buy second-line American arms and spare arms parts.

Appearing with Tito to fill in reporters on the results of their talks here, Ford said he also would give attention to economic relations with this independent Communist country.

The Yugoslav leader, in turn, said he essentially agreed with a call by the U.S. President for moderation and flexibility in seeking a Middle East settlement.

Neither man took questions, but Ford went over the agenda of the business sessions the two leaders have had since his arrival Sunday night.

"We did discuss, of course, bilateral relations between Yugoslavia and the United States," Ford said. "These included, of course, economic relations and of course they included our military relations."

Ford, who is in Yugoslavia to boost that country's strongly independent position in the Communist world, then added: "I will give both matters my very personal attention because of their significance."

The possibility that the United States might supply spare parts and other arms to Yugoslavia emerged after a visit here last November by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Yugoslavia had received $695.6 million in U.S. arms under a program terminated in 1957.

The Soviet Union is Yugoslavia's chief arms supplier, although this country produces much of its own weaponry.

Ford began his day with a before-breakfast swim, had breakfast with Yugoslav Prime Minister Dzemal Bijedic and then drove to Belgrade's Park of Friendship where he placed soil around an eight-foot white fir.

Oil bill failure to bring charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the price of fuel goes up, so will the intensity of blame-shifting by Democrats and Republicans as each side points the finger at the other.

In the final hours before Congress left last week for a month-long vacation, the lawmakers put aside their frustrated debate over energy policy and voted simply to continue the present system of oil price controls for another six months.

President Ford is expected to veto that bill when he returns from Europe with the result that price controls on more than 60 per cent of U.S.-produced oil will abruptly end Aug. 31. That oil will be permitted to rise in price from $5.25 a barrel to the unregulated market price of more than $11 a barrel.

By the administration's estimates, the retail prices of petroleum products then will rise gradually, adding as much as 6 cents to the gallon price over an eight-month period.

By taking off the month of August, Congress will not be able to attempt to override Ford's expected veto of the price-control extension measure before the controls expire, although there is some doubt that Congress would succeed in any such override effort.

Administration officials may have given a sneak preview of Ford's expected veto message in their criticism of Congress for failing to come up with an energy program.

Thus, the lawmakers are particularly sensitive about their vacation.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., told the House in the waning hours before adjournment: "It is an irresponsible and unconscionable outrage against the American people" for Congress to go home without an energy solution. He was booed and hissed by members.

But when Republican Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, used a parliamentary tactic to force an end to work on a Democrat-backed oil pricing bill, there were cheers from both sides of the aisle. Both wanted to call it quits for now.

Democratic National Committee Chairman Robert S. Strauss defended the recess of the Democrat-controlled Congress.

"I know that almost all members ... are anxious to spend some time with their constituents at home, to hear ... how they feel about higher food prices, higher fuel prices, and fewer jobs."

He said Congress completed seven months of hard work and "it has a good, solid record of achievement in a very difficult era," Strauss said. "The Congress has time and again provided responses to the great needs of the nation, but has often seen these answers nullified by a veto-prone President."

Sunday afternoon showers and thunderstorms across Ohio washed the state's air clean, lifting a four-day air stagnation advisory, the National Weather Service said.

Rainfall ranging from one-quarter inch in Cincinnati to more than a half inch in Youngstown was recorded by the weather service. In some areas, including Columbus, brief, but torrential, thunderstorms rapidly cleared and cooled the air.

A weather service spokesman said somewhat cooler temperatures—highs in the upper 70s and low 80s and lows in the upper 50s and low 60s—could be expected in the coming week. Temperatures in the mid and upper 90s were reported throughout the state last week as a heat wave seared the Midwest and East Coast.

The high pressure center responsible for the poor air condition had caused air pollution warnings and alerts in Steubenville, Canton, Akron, Youngstown, Cleveland and Lake and Geauga counties.

Industries in the Toledo, Cleveland, Steubenville areas were reported to have cut back Saturday to comply with the state antipollution order.

Fair skies Wednesday through Friday. Highs in the 70s and low 80s Wednesday and Thursday and in the 80s Friday. Lows in the upper 50s and low 60s.

Two accidents this weekend claimed three lives each and two others killed two each. Other victims included four pedestrians and a man killed in a car-train accident in Dayton.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Watching the opening of the $163 million Louisiana Superdome from seats a dizzying 17 stories up was like watching Mardi Gras from a ferris wheel.

"Somebody's gonna get killed," said a panting spectator who had toiled up the 30 degree grade to the top tier of seats. "It feels like you're falling on your face."

"Just hand me an oxygen mask and let me sit here for awhile," a woman with him said.

"Man, ain't it something," said another man from a nearby seat.

"Exciting space," observed a young architect in the jargon of his profession.

Dixieland musicians down on the floor gave way to the New Orleans Summer Pops Orchestra, which in turn stepped aside for Adler Ledoux's Cajun fiddlers. The Southern University band wound up the six-hour free show Sunday. All of it blared from giant speakers suspended from the stadium's roof 270 feet up.

The musicians appeared ant-sized from the top seats, but six 22-by-26-foot television screens magnified them in close-up color.

FBI joins Hoffa search

DETROIT (AP) — The FBI, which once assigned dozens of agents to put Jimmy Hoffa behind bars, today began to coordinate a team of police agencies working day and night to find the ex-Teamsters president.

Federal sources told the Detroit News today that they believe Hoffa was kidnapped or killed, the victim of his own campaign to regain union power — a campaign which threatened present both union officials and organized crime.

The FBI entered the case Sunday after FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley revealed in a brief statement that extortion demands had been received. Hoffa's family said it has received no

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lapsed into another broad and steady decline today in the midst of continuing inflation worries.

Trading was very light.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 7.74 at 818.76, and declining issues outpaced those advancing by nearly a 3-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the primary issue of concern was the uptrend of late in food prices, underscored by a sharp rise in many farm commodity futures this morning.

elderly, roaming the miles of ramps, lining up at the portable beer stands under the 13-acre roof.

"It's a typical Mardi Gras crowd," said John Pechon Jr., director of security for the Dome. He estimated that 80,000 people were inside the arena at the peak of the day's action.

Much of the big stadium was locked away from public view: the plush private suites, convention meeting rooms, office spaces. Much of it — an estimated $1 million worth — was still unfinished: escalators and elevators didn't work, ceiling tiles hadn't been installed, and water fountains were dry. The crowd didn't seem to mind.

Cars backed up a half mile waiting to get into the parking garages as others tried to get out, but there were no angry shouts and little horn tooting.

The Dome was four years in planning and an equal number of years in construction. It has been the subject of political controversy and two dozen lawsuits, and its financial dealings have been investigated by federal, state and local authorities. Its cost ballooned from the initial bid price of $93 million to the current $163 million.

The entire Louisiana territory was purchased for $15 million in 1803, but

Commissioners renew county farm contract

The renewal of a contract for the operation of the county farm was the only business before the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning.

The commissioners voted to renew a one-year contract for the lease of the 600-acre farm with Donald Denen, 2555 CCC Highway-E. The farm is contracted on a 50-50 basis.

Commissioners were also scheduled to meet with members of the Business and Professional Womens Club Monday afternoon to discuss the cleaning of the Archibald Willard Murals in the Courthouse. The club will clean the murals as a Bicentennial project.

Commissioner J. Herbert Perrill also clarified a point concerning the commissioners certification of an additional .50 mill levy for the Fayette Progressive School.

He pointed out that the board of commissioners must approve any levy requests from public agencies operating outside of incorporated areas, except for school boards, before it can be submitted to the Fayette County Board of Elections.

Perrill said the commissioners approval of the levy request should not be construed as an endorsement of the .50 mill levy.

Chairman Ray Warner also expressed the board's congratulations and appreciation to local merchants, the Antique and Classic Car Club, and other clubs and organizations participating in the annual Old Fashioned Bargain Days activities during the past week.

At MTHS stadium

200 persons attend open air services

Showers threatened but did not dampen the 200 persons nor their spirits at the first of this year's open air church services at Miami Trace High School's football stadium Sunday night.

The South Side Church of Christ was in charge of the services and several persons attended the event in old fashioned attire in observance of the South Side Church of Christ's "old fashioned" day. Several persons attending arrived in antique autos.

The Rev. Charles J. Richmond, pastor of the South Side Church of Christ, spoke of the need to "make room for Jesus" in our lives in these full and busy days. Following the service, Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson was introduced as a special guest. He expressed his pleasure at being invited to address the group and explained some of the difficulties presently being experienced by the sheriff's department. He quoted from the preamble of the U.S. constitution and questioned as to whether these are still the goals of Americans.

Next Sunday night the services will continue with the Hickory Lane Church of Christ congregation in charge. The church choir will provide music and the Rev. Keith Wooley will deliver the message.

Members of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners have been invited as special guests and chairman Ray Warner will address the group following the services.

This is the seventh consecutive year for the open air services, which are sponsored by the Churches of Christ and Christian churches in Fayette County.

The services begin at 7:30 p.m. and the entire community is urged to support the services as a part of the bicentennial celebration.

In Roman numerals the letter C represents 100.

Secret service probes garbage

LANTANA, Fla. (AP) — The National Enquirer says the story it wrote after a reporter retrieved several bags of trash from behind Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's home has prompted a Secret Service investigation.

The weekly newspaper says in its latest edition it was told by a Secret Service spokesman that the agency is investigating why "important documents were thrown out in Mr. Kissinger's garbage."

The newspaper reported that the trash, in addition to such items as a liquor shopping list, included detailed work schedules for agents assigned to Kissinger and a note about weapons and ammunition used by the agents.

In its latest issue, the newspaper said Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner wrote asking for the return of any Secret Service material. The newspaper said it would comply.

Barnes fight against vo-ed continues

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Two and one-half years ago, Upper Sandusky realtor Dennis Barnes launched his fight against vocational education.

Since then, he figures he has spent $3,000 of his own money and 2,000 hours of his time in a frustrating fight against one of Gov. James A. Rhodes' favorite projects—vocational education.

Barnes, 42, filed his first suit in April, 1973, claiming in Wyandot County Common Pleas Court that state funding of vocational education is unconstitutional.

Since that time, Barnes has attacked vo-ed in county and appellate courts in northwestern Ohio, plus the Ohio and U. S. Supreme Courts. Barnes has acted as his own attorney in almost all cases, substituting exhaustive research for his own lack of legal training.

Barnes said his aversion to vo-ed began when he was a member of this north central Ohio community school board. The board was considering implementing a vo-ed program of its own, which he felt would change the values of the school system.

Barnes claims vo-ed violates the state constitution because it doesn't meet the constitutional definition of "common schools." He contends "common schools" provide learning for the mind, while vo-ed schools teach a trade.

Commissioners renew county farm contract

The renewal of a contract for the operation of the county farm was the only business before the Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday morning.

The commissioners voted to renew a one-year contract for the lease of the 600-acre farm with Donald Denen, 2555 CCC Highway-E. The farm is contracted on a 50-50 basis.

Commissioners were also scheduled to meet with members of the Business and Professional Womens Club Monday afternoon to discuss the cleaning of the Archibald Willard Murals in the Courthouse. The club will clean the murals as a Bicentennial project.

Commissioner J. Herbert Perrill also clarified a point concerning the commissioners certification of an additional .50 mill levy for the Fayette Progressive School.

He pointed out that the board of commissioners must approve any levy requests from public agencies operating outside of incorporated areas, except for school boards, before it can be submitted to the Fayette County Board of Elections.

Perrill said the commissioners approval of the levy request should not be construed as an endorsement of the .50 mill levy.

Chairman Ray Warner also expressed the board's congratulations and appreciation to local merchants, the Antique and Classic Car Club, and other clubs and organizations participating in the annual Old Fashioned Bargain Days activities during the past week.

Barnes fight against vo-ed continues

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Two and one-half years ago, Upper Sandusky realtor Dennis Barnes launched his fight against vocational education.

Since then, he figures he has spent $3,000 of his own money and 2,000 hours of his time in a frustrating fight against one of Gov. James A. Rhodes' favorite projects—vocational education.

Barnes, 42, filed his first suit in April, 1973, claiming in Wyandot County Common Pleas Court that state funding of vocational education is unconstitutional.

Since that time, Barnes has attacked vo-ed in county and appellate courts in northwestern Ohio, plus the Ohio and U. S. Supreme Courts. Barnes has acted as his own attorney in almost all cases, substituting exhaustive research for his own lack of legal training.

Barnes said his aversion to vo-ed began when he was a member of this north central Ohio community school board. The board was considering implementing a vo-ed program of its own, which he felt would change the values of the school system.

Barnes claims vo-ed violates the state constitution because it doesn't meet the constitutional definition of "common schools." He contends "common schools" provide learning for the mind, while vo-ed schools teach a trade.

Secret service probes garbage

LANTANA, Fla. (AP) — The National Enquirer says the story it wrote after a reporter retrieved several bags of trash from behind Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's home has prompted a Secret Service investigation.

The weekly newspaper says in its latest edition it was told by a Secret Service spokesman that the agency is investigating why "important documents were thrown out in Mr. Kissinger's garbage."

The newspaper reported that the trash, in addition to such items as a liquor shopping list, included detailed work schedules for agents assigned to Kissinger and a note about weapons and ammunition used by the agents.

In its latest issue, the newspaper said Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner wrote asking for the return of any Secret Service material. The newspaper said it would comply.

Contract to lose weight

Scene: The living room after dinner. Characters: Mr. and Mrs. Plubby

Mr. Plubby: That was a great dinner, Honey, but I feel stuffed.

Mrs. Plubby: Me, too. I shouldn't have eaten so much—as usual. I just can't seem to stick with my diet.

Mr. Plubby: Why don't we go on a diet together? Feed the kids dinner, and you and I just have a salad and maybe a little piece of lean meat.

Mrs. Plubby: And then an hour later two or three beers and some snacks in front of the TV? And then around bedtime a little visit to the fridge to tide you over 'til breakfast, unless you happen to wake up in the middle of the night and feel the need of a little something.

Mr. Plubby: (In an injured tone) Well, and how about cocoa and cookies at bedtime? What do the rules say about that?

Mrs. Plubby: I know, I know. I guess it just wouldn't work.

At this point, enter Dr. George J. Allen, a University of Connecticut psychology professor. He has been riding herd on research into husband-wife dieting contracts. They seem to be an effective weight-losing technique.

The contract, says Allen, should clearly spell out the rewards for behavior that leads to weight loss. "They ought to be systematic," he remarked the other day. "You just can't make a contract and then forget about it."

So there you are, Mr. and Mrs. Plubby. Don't just talk about it after dinner; draw up a contract, get it down on paper. A contract banning, among other things, TV beers and the cocoa-and-cookie routine and middle-of-the-night icebox adventures. It's worth a try.

THESE DAYS . . . By John Chamberlain

Castro and the Caribbean

The U.S. has let it be known that it will not object if the Organization of American States decides that the time is now ripe for a hemispheric rapprochement with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Maybe there is no use in fighting what seems to be in the cards. The last time the 21 members of the OAS voted on the subject, Cuba came within two votes of getting the required two-thirds majority needed for recognition. Haiti and Guatemala, along with the U.S., abstained from voting, but since then Haiti has signified its willingness to resume diplomatic relations with the Cubans.

The pull of economics is strong. Cuba hasn't been doing too well as a Soviet satellite. Russian harvesting equipment has been notoriously inefficient in the Cuban sugarcane fields. Moscow and the Eastern European states have been willing to take most of the Cuban sugar crop, but the Soviets have had little capital to spare for developing Cuban nickel mining or for building hotels to lure tourists. Castro would manifestly like to regain a favored position in the U.S. sugar market, and he would like to have enough foreign exchange to pay for Venezuelan and Mexican oil.

The question is how cheaply is the U.S. to sell its vote in the OAS? If we are to recognize Castro, it should be with the distinct understanding that the Soviets are not to use Cuban ports for supporting submarine rendezvous in the Caribbean.

The Russians have been making a big play for maritime dominance everywhere. They have just about taken over the Indian Ocean. They have facilities all around the old British Imperial Arch that extends from Yemen and Aden at the southern entrance to the Red Sea past India and Ceylon to the straits at Singapore. They have a missile base in Somalia. The opening of the Suez Canal means they can move their new Kiev class aircraft carriers from the Black Sea southward into Persian Gulf waters with a speed that the U.S., with its main base at Norfolk, Virginia, cannot possibly match.

With the oil routes to the Persian Gulf so vulnerable to Soviet sea power, you might think the U.S. would be a little jealous about maintaining the safety of its own backyard. If we are to give up the Indian Ocean, we should at least hold the Caribbean Sea. What is detente for anyway if it is not to get certain tacit quid pro quo understandings?

Fortunately, Henry Kissinger's willingness to bargain U.S. sovereignty away in the Panama Canal Zone will hardly gain the consent of the U.S. Senate. So we are committed to maintaining our power to move our ships from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and vice versa, without interference. But if we are to recognize Castro without any prior understanding about the safety of the Caribbean, we could be in for it.

The test, with Castro, would come over our rights to the Guantanamo naval station. As part of his bill for dealing with the U.S., Castro has let it be known that he wants Guantanamo back. But if we were to acquiesce in any such arrangement, we would be inviting trouble in Panama. Relinquishment of Guantanamo would be taken as a sign that we had lost our nerve. The Panamanians will be watching what we do once Castro has been welcomed into the OAS fold.

The Kissinger move to "restore" Panamanian "rights" in the Canal Zone has only served to embolden Castro in his demand that Guantanamo be handed back to Cuba. The U.S. bought the Canal Zone from Panama in good faith: It was part of a deal that enabled the Panamanians to gain their freedom from Colombia, which, in the days before there was any air communication between the Colombian capital of Bogota and Panama City, had shown little disposition to do anything for the people of the isthmus. If any wrong was done when Teddy Roosevelt used a U.S. naval threat to enable the Panamanian patriots to carry out their revolution, it was to Colombia, not Panama.

So it is ingratitude for the Panamanians to ask for a cancellation of the Canal Zone purchase. We need a Caribbean policy that will both protect the Zone against local finagling and, at the same time, keep the Soviets from using Cuba as a maritime base. Guantanamo and the Zone go together, and any deal with Castro must recognize their inseparability.

Congress rapped by Sen. Taft

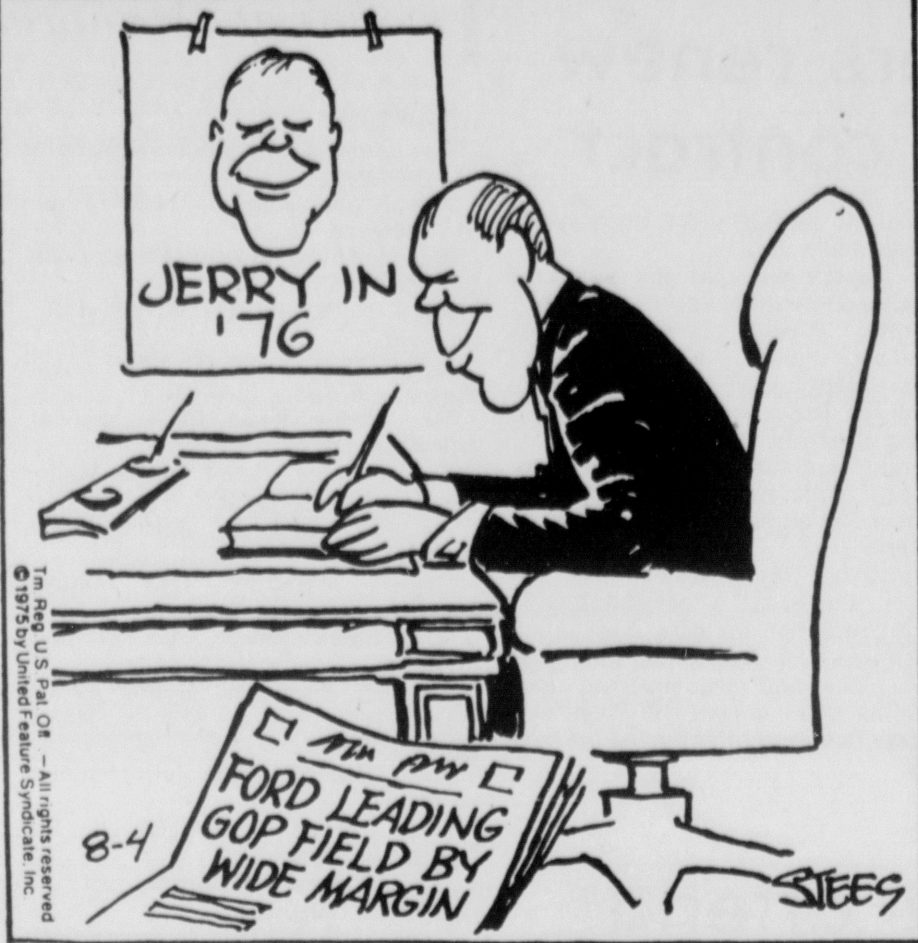

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, has attacked Congress on two fronts — for inaction on crude oil prices and failure to take responsibility for their own pay raises.

Taft said while Congress haggles over possible decontrol of crude oil prices, the current controls may expire and prices could jump from $5.35 a barrel to as much as $11 or $12.

Taft also pressed his colleagues to change the system by which they can avoid voting on pay raises for themselves. A commission now recommends increases for federal employees, including congressmen, unless Congress moves to stop them.

Coal-power linkup blasted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Should the power companies get out of the coal business and leave mining to the miners?

Neal Tostenson, executive vice president of the Ohio Mining and Reclamation Association, says a definite "Yes."

Tostenson recently told the legislature's Joint Select Committee on Energy, which is investigating whether customers are paying more or less for such self-owned coal, that the utilities tend to control the coal industry rather than the other way around.

This is because the coal market has for years been a buyer's market, and utilities are the biggest buyers, he said.

Only last fall's threat of a long miner's strike reversed the trend temporarily by leading to a large stockpiling of coal and thus a sellers' market. This drove coal prices up.

But "when you get large reserves bought up by utilities, it destroyed the competitive basis which this country is built on," Tostenson said.

The association official claimed utility divestiture of mining operations would encourage price competition among independent mining companies and impose natural limits on prices.

Testimony before the committee has established that among Ohio's seven investor-owned electric companies, three receive a portion of their generating fuel from their own coal mines—Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., the Ohio Power Co., and the Ohio Edison Co.

But Tostenson said he is concerned about only one.

"Ohio Edison has a little, but it's such a minuscule amount that I'm not concerned about it," he said. "And I basically favor the Columbus and Southern Ohio approach, which has been to contract with Peabody Coal Co. to do the mining. That's proper. The electric company provides the financial backing and the coal company provides the expertise."

On the other hand, he charged that the Ohio Power Co. is operating three deep mines in southern Ohio very inefficiently.

"The last I heard, it was costing them $32 a ton to bring coal from their own deep mines," he said. "On the other hand, you can buy coal in Belmont County for $15 a ton. Something is wrong here, and there's got to be an impact."

Coal prices, he said, have risen sharply for a number of reasons including new safety and strip mine laws, black lung benefits and higher wages for miners and the demand for coal touched off by the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

The whole view and nothing butt

DEAR ABBY: Every year, our section of four neighborhood homes is subjected to a disgraceful display of an uncovered rear end of a 68-year-old woman who plants her pansies in this position.

She wears a very short dress and bends from the waist instead of stooping or crouching. I once told her how comfortable slacks are, and she launched into a tirade about how unfeminine they were.

Her garden is in full view of our patio, and we can't entertain or sit out there because this woman ruins the view.

Would you please comment? Sign this,

"SEEN IT ALL"

DEAR SEEN: The direct approach is usually the best one. Why not tell your neighbor frankly that if she doesn't like slacks, she should wear a longer dress while gardening.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a 55-year-old wealthy president of his own company. During our 22 years of marriage, he has felt the need to consult periodically with psychiatrists. I have never met any of his shrink and many times wasn't even aware that he had been seeing one until after his therapy was completed.

My husband is highly motivated but can't do anything in moderation. This applies to golf, taking medicine, exercising, and everything else he gets involved in.

Now he says he has a new shrink who has advised him to forget his wife and two teenage children and to "do his own thing."

I'd like to know what in the hell this doctor thinks my husband has been doing for the last 22 years without any interference with from me.

Your advice would be greatly appreciated.

MARYLAND

DEAR MARYLAND: I seriously doubt that any psychiatrists worth his salt would advise a patient to "forget his wife and family and to do his own thing."

Ask your husband to ask his psychiatrist to set up a series of three-way sessions between husband, wife and doctor to discuss where matters stand. It might even turn out that there is no psychiatrist!

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with Della for nearly a year. We have a lot in common, and I've even considered marrying her, but there is a problem.

Whenever we get into an argument (usually about politics), she gets very angry and she bites me! Della has bitten me on the cheek and also on the hand. When she bites, she actually draws blood!

Does she need help?

ONCE BITTEN

DEAR ONCE: Yes! And if you don't get help (medical) after having been bitten by a human, the effects can be serious. (A human bite can be more dangerous than that of an animal.) Della's obvious inability to curb her temper is symptomatic of a deeper emotional problem.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ON THE SPOT": I know of no way for you to get your tapes and pictures back. But if you suspect that you will eventually be blackmailed, discuss it with a lawyer.

But Tostenson said he is concerned about only one.

"Ohio Edison has a little, but it's such a miniscule amount that I'm not concerned about it," he said. "And I basically favor the Columbus and Southern Ohio approach, which has been to contract with Peabody Coal Co. to do the mining. That's proper. The electric company provides the financial backing and the coal company provides the expertise."

On the other hand, he charged that the Ohio Power Co. is operating three deep mines in southern Ohio very inefficiently.

"The last I heard, it was costing them $32 a ton to bring coal from their own deep mines," he said. "On the other hand, you can buy coal in Belmont County for $15 a ton. Something is wrong here, and there's got to be an impact."

Coal prices, he said, have risen sharply for a number of reasons including new safety and strip mine laws, black lung benefits and higher wages for miners and the demand for coal touched off by the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

The whole view and nothing butt

DEAR ABBY: Every year, our section of four neighborhood homes is subjected to a disgraceful display of an uncovered rear end of a 68-year-old woman who plants her pansies in this position.

She wears a very short dress and bends from the waist instead of stooping or crouching. I once told her how comfortable slacks are, and she launched into a tirade about how unfeminine they were.

Her garden is in full view of our patio, and we can't entertain or sit out there because this woman ruins the view.

Would you please comment? Sign this,

"SEEN IT ALL!"

DEAR SEEN: The direct approach is usually the best one. Why not tell your neighbor frankly that if she doesn't like slacks, she should wear a longer dress while gardening.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a 55-year-old wealthy president of his own company. During our 22 years of marriage, he has felt the need to consult periodically with psychiatrists.

I have never met any of his shrink and many times wasn't even aware that he had been seeing one until after his therapy was completed.

My husband is highly motivated but can't do anything in moderation. This applies to golf, taking medicine, exercising, and everything else he gets involved in.

Now he says he has a new shrink who has advised him to forget his wife and two teenage children and to "do his own thing."

I'd like to know what in the hell this doctor thinks my husband has been doing for the last 22 years without any interference with from me.

Your advice would be greatly appreciated.

MARYLAND

DEAR MARYLAND: I seriously doubt that any psychiatrist worth his salt would advise a patient to "forget his wife and family and to do his own thing."

Ask your husband to ask his psychiatrist to set up a series of three-way sessions between husband, wife and doctor to discuss where matters stand. It might even turn out that there is no psychiatrist!

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with Della for nearly a year. We have a lot in common, and I've even considered marrying her, but there is a problem.

Whenever we get into an argument (usually about politics), she gets very angry and she bites me! Della has bitten me on the cheek and also on the hand. When she bites, she actually draws blood!

Does she need help?

ONCE BITTEN

DEAR ONCE: Yes! And if you don't get help (medical) after having been bitten by a human, the effects can be serious. (A human bite can be more dangerous than that of an animal.) Della's obvious inability to curb her temper is symptomatic of a deeper emotional problem.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ON THE SPOT": I know of no way for you to get your tapes and pictures back. But if you suspect that you will eventually be blackmailed, discuss it with a lawyer.

Today In History

Today is Monday, Aug. 4, the 216th day of 1975. There are 149 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, Britain declared war on Germany at the beginning of the First World I.

On this date: In 1790, a U.S. naval force which later became the Coast Guard was formed.

In 1805, the United States concluded a peace treaty with Tripoli.

In 1892, Lizzie Borden was arrested in Fall River, Mass., for the hatchet murder of her father and stepmother.

In 1916, the United States bought the Danish Virgin Islands for $25 million.

In 1955, eleven U.S. Air Force fliers captured during the Korean War reached Hong Kong after being freed from prison in China.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy announced that the highest American award for a civilian would go to Dr. Frances Kelsey, the Federal official who kept the harmful drug, Thalidomide, off the American market.

Ten years ago: President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana was in touch with U.S. and North Vietnamese leaders in an effort to restore peace in Vietnam.

Five years ago: The death toll from Hurricane Celia was put at more than 30, in Cuba, Florida and Texas.

One year ago: Portugal's government announced that it was ready to recognize the territory of Portuguese Guinea as an independent state.

Today's birthdays: Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth is 75. Former Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson is 76.

Thought for today: Youth will be served — English proverb.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, General George Washington reported to the Continental Congress that ammunition was critically short, that his regiments differed greatly in size and that steps must be taken to prepare winter quarters for his men.

Wealthy beggar 'taken' by court?

CHICAGO (AP) — Four months ago, when police tried to arrest Robert Friedman for begging for dimes in front of a downtown bus station, he pleaded:

"Don't take me in. I'm not broke. I didn't know this was a crime." And he opened a brief case he carried with him that contained $24,087 in small bills.

A few days later, he was committed to a mental institution by a judge who said he was protecting Friedman from thugs who might be after his cash.

Today, Friedman, 43, has seen half his life savings eaten away by hospital fees and doctors' bills for treatment ordered by the court and by an $800-a-month drain the state says it costs to keep him at the mental facility he fought to stay out of. He was even ordered to pay the fees for the lawyer who argued that he be committed.

Lawyer Edward J. Benett, who has taken on Friedman's case for no fee, said he fears that Friedman's case is a "frighteningly common" one of persons ordered to spend the rest of their lives unheard from because they are eccentric, though sane.

He said it goes beyond a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision which held that mental patients cannot be committed involuntarily without treatment if they pose no threat to society. Benett says that in Friedman's case the treatment itself may be illegal.

"He (Friedman) worked since he was 11 and was a very good clerk-typist and stenographer who at one time took shorthand at 100 words per minute," said Benett. "He lived frugally his entire life and saved every penny he made. He wore old clothes, lived in an $80-a-week hotel, ate day-old bread and fruit.

"His only obsession in life was saving money, unfortunately. If he didn't have that money when he was panhandling, he'd be a free man today."

Benett, a law professor at DePaul University, has appealed the commitment order of Circuit Judge Lawrence L. Genesen, contending it was based on insufficient evidence of alleged mental disorders.

Genesen himself said at a hearing after Friedman was committed, "I wonder what my decision would have been if he wasn't carrying $24,000 around. On the evidence, I decided that the man lacked good judgment. If he only had a quarter instead of $24,000, my interpretation of his judgment might have been somewhat different."

July's precipitation total below established average

Precipitation recorded in Washington C. H. during the month of July totaled 2.82 inches, according to the monthly report prepared by Coyt A. Stookey, official Washington C. H. weather observer.

The precipitation total of 2.82 inches for the 31-day period was 1.15 inches below the established average of 3.97 inches for the month of July.

Stookey said the precipitation for the first seven months of the year is 2.62 inches over the established average. Washington C. H. has received 28.17 inches of actual precipitation through July. The over-the-years average is 25.55 inches.

Last year, precipitation totaled 2.28 inches in July, Stookey said.

Minimum daily temperatures at Stookey's recording station, located at 134 E. Ohio Ave., ranged from a low of 51 degrees on July 14 to a high of 71 degrees on July 24.

Ryan rips Glenn stand on energy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio energy chief Robert S. Ryan criticized Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, for speaking against a Senate bill amendment offered by Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio, which called for an additional allotment of $35 million for development of Appalachia's shale gas reserves.

Ryan said Saturday that the defeat in the U.S. Senate of the bill providing more money for shale gas research will hurt Ohio's working people.

"Senator Glenn has previously said that his scientific expertise will lead us out of the energy wilderness. His action Thursday in leading the fight against shale gas development fails to demonstrate an awareness of the depth of the problem," said Ryan, executive secretary of the Ohio Energy Emergency Commission.

"According to Federal Energy Research and Development Administration information Appalachian shale gas reserves are the largest left in the world," Ryan said. "At a time when thousands of Ohioans are facing the specter of unemployment because of a lack of natural gas we must pull out all stops to develop new resources."

Ryan said what is needed is "an all-out development program to solve the natural gas problem. This is the only way we can assure full production for our factories and full employment for our workers."

Neither Ohio senator could be reached for comment.

Water division chief selected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Natural Resources has hired Brig. Gen. Wayne S. Nichols as chief of the newly-organized division of water.

Nichols, 53, will assume the post Sept. 1 when he retires as chief of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Ohio River Division in Cincinnati.

Nichols, a West Point graduate, has been with the Cincinnati division since 1973. He formerly was director of engineering and topographer for the Army in Washington.

When Owens Lake bed, located near Death Valley National Monument, was full, the water contained so much borax and soda that neither fish nor mammal could live there.

Garringer reunion held at Eber School

The 51st annual Garringer family reunion was held Sunday at Eber School with fewer relatives than usual present.

Models learn from one another

BY JOAN O'SULLIVAN

"People think models are born looking that way. We're not," admitted Sunny Griffin, a top model with the Ford Agency for 13 years. "We practice with makeup all the time. We're constantly experimenting and changing. We learn from each other. For example, I love the way Lauren Hutton does her eyes, so I started using plum eye shadow the way she does."

Because no one knows more about makeup than a model — cosmetics are the tools of her trade — Sunny is no longer posing for fashion shots in Harper's Bazaar and the other slick books. In January, she signed a contract with Avon, the world's largest cosmetic company, and is into a new career.

Unlike Lauren Hutton, who poses exclusively for Revlon, or Karen Graham, whose face appears in all the Estee Lauder ads, Sunny is more than a model. She is "the" Avon lady, "Beauty Editor" on the company's television commercials and a spokeswoman who shares her makeup expertise with the more than 305,000 Avon representatives across the United States.

"I always thought of my modeling career as building a base for something else," she said. That something else is her present assignment.

Believable Beautiful

Obviously what Avon was looking for — and more than 300 American beauties were screened for the position — was something more than just another pretty face. They wanted someone believably beautiful, someone their customers could identify with, someone expert in the how-tos of using their products.

Sunny's first screen test for Avon left her jittery because "I literally did it blind. I was supposed to read the cue card but since I couldn't see a word without glasses, I ad libbed."

Second time around, she memorized the script. What really clinched it was the tape of a TV fashion-talk show she hosted in Boston. Her assignment: to give viewers sewing tips.

A Stitch in Time

"I've been sewing since I was 3," she recalled. "I sewed my way through college to make money. One time, I remember, I made six bridesmaid's dresses. That's what got me the TV show. I arrived at the studio one morning for my stint, and walked right into chaos. They needed to fill 10 minutes. I went on with a bare face and made up in front of the camera, giving viewers tips as I proceeded. When the program was over, the switchboard was swamped with calls from women with beauty problems."

The "bare face" bit is now an established part of her beauty talks to Avon representatives. They are give-and-take sessions during which she applies makeup, explaining how and why, answers questions and encourages the reps to share their own makeup tricks.

Makeup is something Sunny applies with a sure hand. In 10 minutes, with no fuss or bother, she's ready to face the day.

Work at It

"It's a quick job to apply makeup," she said, "but in between times I like to experiment. Try new effects. Women

FORMER MODEL Sunny Griffin has stepped out of the pages of high fashion magazines into a new career as spokeswoman for the world's largest cosmetic company.

A motion was made by Doris Garringer and seconded by Barbara Garringer to retain the same officers for the coming year. A motion was also issued and seconded to hold the reunion at the same time and place next year.

ORIENTAL-STYLE CHUCK STEAK

2 1/2-to 3-pound bone-in chuck steak, trimmed of excess fat
1 beef bouillon cube dissolved in 3/4 cup boiling water
1 can (8 ounces) pineapple chunks in unsweetened pineapple juice
1 cup thinly sliced onion
1 cup green pepper strips
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Models learn from one another

BY JOAN O'SULLIVAN
"People think models are born looking that way. We're not," admitted Sunny Griffin, a top model with the Ford Agency for 13 years. "We practice with makeup all the time. We're constantly experimenting and changing. We learn from each other. For example, I love the way Lauren Hutton does her eyes, so I started using plum eye shadow the way she does."

Because no one knows more about makeup than a model — cosmetics are the tools of her trade — Sunny is no longer posing for fashion shots in Harper's Bazaar and the other slick books. In January, she signed a contract with Avon, the world's largest cosmetic company, and is into a new career.

Unlike Lauren Hutton, who poses exclusively for Revlon, or Karen Graham, whose face appears in all the Estee Lauder ads, Sunny is more than a model. She is "the" Avon lady, "Beauty Editor" on the company's television commercials and a spokeswoman who shares her makeup expertise with the more than 305,000 Avon representatives across the United States.

"I always thought of my modeling career as building a base for something else," she said. That something else is her present assignment.

Believably Beautiful
Obviously what Avon was looking for — and more than 300 American beauties were screened for the position — was something more than just another pretty face. They wanted someone believably beautiful, someone their customers could identify with, someone expert in the how-tos of using their products.

Sunny's first screen test for Avon left her jittery because "I literally died it blind. I was supposed to read the cue card but since I couldn't see a word without glasses, I ad libbed."

Second time around, she memorized the script. What really clinched it was the tape of a TV fashion-talk show she hosted in Boston. Her assignment: to give viewers sewing tips.

A Stitch in Time
"I've been sewing since I was 3," she recalled. "I sewed my way through college to make money. One time I remember, I made six bridesmaid's dresses. That's what got me the TV show. I arrived at the studio one morning for my stint, and walked right into chaos. They needed to fill 10 minutes. I went on with a bare face and made up in front of the camera, giving viewers tips as I proceeded. When the program was over, the switchboard was swamped with calls from women with beauty problems."

The "bare face" bit is now an established part of her beauty talks to Avon representatives. They are give-and-take sessions during which she applies makeup, explaining how and why, answers questions and encourages the reps to share their own makeup tricks.

Makeup is something Sunny applies with a sure hand. In 10 minutes, with no fuss or bother, she's ready to face the day.

Work at It
"It's a quick job to apply makeup," she said, "but in between times I like to experiment. Try new effects. Women should spend more time trying out makeup. It's a mistake to wait for the big occasion and then experiment."

FORMER MODEL Sunny Griffin has stepped out of the pages of high fashion magazines into a new career as spokeswoman for the world's largest cosmetic company.

She also believes in change. As I flipped through the pages of a 1960s Harper's Bazaar featuring photographs of Sunny, this was evident.

"In those days, we used heavy liner," she observed. "Now that makeup is more natural, I look 10 years younger."

Agreed. Instead of liner, she dips into a tube of the same plum shadow which she uses on the outer half of the eyelid (to make her eyes seem wider) and applies it in a thin line next to the lashes. It's subtle but effective.

She no longer wears false lashes. Instead, she builds up her own with lash-lengthening mascara — applying three coats, letting each dry, then powdering lightly over it.

Change of Face
"Change is the important thing in beauty," she said. "Keeping the same look year in and year out is a mistake. Women will say, 'But my husband likes me the way I am.' I say that faces change over the years and makeup has to change, too. Men resist change; but beauty changes can be subtle."

Originally from suburban Baltimore, she made New York City her home until January when her husband, Dick Wagner, a CBS commentator, was transferred to Los Angeles. She's up in the air a great deal, jetting around the country for Avon. When the trip is extended, her 2 1/2-year-old daughter, Kelly, and an au pair girl travel with her.

In a manner of speaking, Kelly is responsible for her mother's success. "When I was about five months pregnant," Sunny said, "I couldn't model clothes so I did a TV show in Philadelphia about sewing, which led to my own TV show in Boston, which led to Avon."

Expert KSU testimony slated

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — More expert testimony was in store for federal court jurors today as victims pressed for what their lawyers pledged would be the last week claims for $46 million in damages from the 1970 Kent State University shootings.

The victims' lawyers said they planned to call a film specialist to the witness stand to interpret a poor-quality home movie of the shootings.

Last week, the panel of seven men and five women deciding the claims heard an acoustics engineer testify that a student's tape recording of the shootings indicated the first shots came from M1 Army rifles.

The engineer was Scott Robinson of a Boston sound investigation firm that helped examine the Watergate tapes. He said computer analysis of the tape and reconstruction of the incident also indicated the shots came from where photos show Ohio National Guardsmen were standing.

The victims' film expert was believed to be one who first analyzed the home movie for the U.S. Justice Department when the government was seeking criminal indictments against guardsmen involved in the incident. His report was that only demonstrators could be seen within 85 feet of the troops when the shooting started.

The film was taken by a student with an 8mm camera in a fifth floor dormitory window about a quarter of a mile away. The original is wrinkled and scarred and cannot be used in a projector, so jurors will see a copy.

The specialist is expected to explain that the slope of the campus hill where the shooting took place creates an optical illusion and that a mass of demonstrators actually is not as close to Ohio National Guardsmen as it appears.

In a motion asking the court to appoint an expert to tell the jury what the film shows, victims' lawyers called the film "potentially the single most important piece of evidence" in the trial.

Attorneys defending 41 present or former state officials and guardsmen have not objected to the film. They believe it shows a surge of protestors toward the troops just before the firing.

The youth who took the film, Christopher R. Abell, testified last week that as he watched through his camera's telephoto lens, he saw what appeared to be a movement of students toward guardsmen just before the firing.

The Guard was sent to Kent during a weekend of rioting set off by the U.S. military incursion into Cambodia.

The shootings came as guardsmen attempted to break up an antiwar rally May 4, 1970.

Variety of offenses checked

A rash of weekend offenses involving larceny, assault and burglary were reported by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Washington C.H. Police Department over the weekend.

Larcenies

An eight-track tape deck valued at $70 was stolen from a car belonging to Richard W. Yarger, 630 W. Circle Ave., while the unlocked auto was parked at 521 E. Elm Street between 9 p.m. Saturday and 6:30 p.m. Sunday, police reported.

A purse owned by Rebecca S. Strausbaugh, New Holland, containing $40 in cash, a checkbook, credit cards and Ms. Strausbaugh's driver's license was stolen from the emergency room of Fayette Memorial Hospital between 2:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Sunday. Police explained the purse was left behind in the emergency room while Ms. Strausbaugh took her child in for treatment.

Two fire extinguishers and a first-aid kit were stolen from a bus belonging to the First Presbyterian Church, while the vehicle was parked in the 400 block of N. Fayette Street at 1:07 p.m. Sunday. Police also reported one seat had been slashed.

An, orange, Indian-designed pot with a braided rope hanger was stolen from the front porch of the Paul Cummings residence, 1003 Washington Ave., sometime between Saturday and Sunday.

A bicycle valued at $50 and described as a 20-inch Hawthorne with a leopard skin banana seat was stolen from the Donald Bishop residence at 620 E. Market St., sometime over the weekend, police reported.

A license plate was removed from a trailer located in a soybean field at 1035 Staunton-Jasper Road, belonging to

Carl B. Hess, 1255 Mark Rd., sometime before early June, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported. Deputies learned of the theft when a stolen trailer was recovered with the missing plate attached. Investigation is continuing.

A stolen bicycle was recovered by police in the vicinity of Court and Fayette streets at 6:58 a.m. Sunday. The 20-inch bike is presently at the police department.

Burglaries

A lock was pried from a storage building behind 813 Sycamore St., sometime between 7 a.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Monday and $20 worth of cakes and cookies stolen. The missing food-stuffs were property of the Frito-Lay Co., Dayton, police reported.

The John P. Tussey residence at 5383 Knight Rd., was entered and ransacked sometime between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday. Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported a window screen had been cut and the window raised in order to gain entry. They reported several items missing, but added investigation is continuing and the list was not yet complete.

Assault

Bertha M. Whaley, 54, of 609 Fourth St., was pushed down a flight of stairs at 1:15 p.m. Sunday at 1005 Yeoman St., when she became involved in an argument. She suffered abrasions of the legs and arms and was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital. Police reported no charges have been filed.

Expert KSU testimony slated

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — More expert testimony was in store for federal court jurors today as victims pressed for what their lawyers pledged would be the last week claims for $46 million in damages from the 1970 Kent State University shootings.

The victims' lawyers said they planned to call a film specialist to the witness stand to interpret a poor-quality home movie of the shootings.

Last week, the panel of seven men and five women deciding the claims heard an acoustics engineer testify that a student's tape recording of the shootings indicated the first shots came from M1 Army rifles.

The engineer was Scott Robinson of a Boston sound investigation firm that helped examine the Watergate tapes. He said computer analysis of the tape and reconstruction of the incident also indicated the shots came from where photos show Ohio National Guardsmen were standing.

The victims' film expert was believed to be one who first analyzed the home movie for the U.S. Justice Department when the government was seeking criminal indictments against guardsmen involved in the incident. His report was that only demonstrators could be seen within 85 feet of the troops when the shooting started.

The film was taken by a student with an 8mm camera in a fifth floor dormitory window about a quarter of a mile away. The original is wrinkled and scarred and cannot be used in a projector, so jurors will see a copy.

The specialist is expected to explain that the slope of the campus hill where the shooting took place creates an optical illusion and that a mass of demonstrators actually is not as close to Ohio National Guardsmen as it appears.

In a motion asking the court to appoint an expert to tell the jury what the film shows, victims' lawyers called the film "potentially the single most important piece of evidence" in the trial.

Attorneys defending 41 present or former state officials and guardsmen have not objected to the film. They believe it shows a surge of protestors toward the troops just before the firing.

The youth who took the film, Christopher R. Abell, testified last week that as he watched through his camera's telephoto lens, he saw what appeared to be a movement of students toward guardsmen just before the firing.

The Guard was sent to Kent during a weekend of rioting set off by the U.S. military incursion into Cambodia.

The shootings came as guardsmen attempted to break up an antiwar rally May 4, 1970.

Variety of offenses checked

A rash of weekend offenses involving larceny, assault and burglary were reported by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and the Washington C.H. Police Department over the weekend.

Larcenies

An eight-track tape deck valued at $70 was stolen from a car belonging to Richard W. Yarger, 630 W. Circle Ave., while the unlocked auto was parked at 521 E. Elm Street between 9 p.m. Saturday and 6:30 p.m. Sunday, police reported.

A purse owned by Rebecca S. Strausbaugh, New Holland, containing $40 in cash, a checkbook, credit cards and Ms. Strausbaugh's driver's license was stolen from the emergency room of Fayette Memorial Hospital between 2:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Sunday. Police explained the purse was left behind in the emergency room while Ms. Strausbaugh took her child in for treatment.

Two fire extinguishers and a first-aid kit were stolen from a bus belonging to the First Presbyterian Church, while the vehicle was parked in the 400 block of N. Fayette Street at 1:07 p.m. Sunday. Police also reported one seat had been slashed.

An orange, Indian-designed pot with a braided rope hanger was stolen from the front porch of the Paul Cummings residence, 1003 Washington Ave., sometime between Saturday and Sunday.

A bicycle valued at $50 and described as a 20-inch Hawthorne with a leopard skin banana seat was stolen from the Donald Bishop residence at 620 E. Market St., sometime over the weekend, police reported.

A license plate was removed from a trailer located in a soybean field at 1035 Staunton-Jasper Road, belonging to

Carl B. Hess, 1255 Mark Rd., sometime before early June, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported. Deputies learned of the theft when a stolen trailer was recovered with the missing plate attached. Investigation is continuing.

A stolen bicycle was recovered by police in the vicinity of Court and Fayette streets at 6:58 a.m. Sunday. The 20-inch bike is presently at the police department.

Burglaries

A lock was pried from a storage building behind 813 Sycamore St., sometime between 7 a.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Monday and $20 worth of cakes and cookies stolen. The missing food-stuffs were property of the Frito-Lay Co., Dayton, police reported.

The John P. Tussey residence at 5383 Knight Rd., was entered and ransacked sometime between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Sunday. Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported a window screen had been cut and the window raised in order to gain entry. They reported several items missing, but added investigation is continuing and the list was not yet complete.

Assault

Bertha M. Whaley, 54, of 609 Fourth St., was pushed down a flight of stairs at 1:15 p.m. Sunday at 1005 Yeoman St., when she became involved in an argument. She suffered abrasions of the legs and arms and was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital. Police reported no charges have been filed.

Phone books drop item on origin

NEW YORK (AP)—A statement saying the telephone was invented in the United States will be deleted from new bicentennial telephone books because a Canadian insisted the device was invented in his country.
The 180 million telephone books — which for the first time this year will bear a common cover design — will be revised to say merely that Alexander Graham Bell first used the telephone to transmit intelligible speech in Boston on May 10, 1876.
The credit for that concession belongs to Keith deBellefeuille Percy, first secretary of the Canadian Embassy in Washington.
When the books first began to be distributed in May, Percy became upset by the statement in the book that Bell "changed the way the world communicated with his invention of the telephone in Boston in May 1876."

Not so said Percy. As every Canadian schoolchild knows the telephone was invented in Brantford, Ont. in 1874.
Percy wrote to an affiliate of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and quoted Bell as saying, "It is rather a curious thing to me to see the dispute about where the telephone was invented...Of this you may be sure, the telephone was invented in Canada."

NEW YORK (AP) — Kevin Dobson, formerly of Jackson Heights, N.Y., the 523rd Military Police Battalion, and the Long Island and Santa Fe railroads, was back in town recently, helping Kojak solve crimes.
Dobson, as fans of CBS' top cop series know, plays Detective Bobby Crocker, the young gendarme at whom Kojak often barks. Dobson will start his third year of getting barked at on CBS come Sept. 14.
The 32-year-old actor, who still has a sturdy Jackson Heights accent, sort of rolled into show biz. He says after his Army days, he spent 2½ years on the Long Island line as a trainman and conductor.
Susan, his bride-to-be, and Jane, one of his two sisters, thought he was good-looking enough to seek work on TV commercials as an extra. So the conductor got sidetracked into that line of work.
But he stayed with the railroad just in case. He said one day an actor he knew introduced him to an agent. The agent sent him to audition for a part in a play, "The Impossible Years."
He got the job and later toured the states in the play, but not before befuddling the producer, who asked Dobson to tell him about the background of Kevin Dobson.
"I said, 'Well, I went to high school,'" the actor said. "And he says, 'Nah, where'd you study acting, where'd you go to college?' I says, 'I didn't, I started to before I worked on the railroad.'"
"And he goes bananas. He doesn't know what's coming off. He says, 'What's going on?' I says, 'Look, pal, I work for the Long Island Rail Road. And I've got an hour to get a train out of Penn Station.'"
That is how Dobson became an actor. He toured with the play, then studied acting at New York's Neighborhood

Reds widen lead over L.A.

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Ap Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds, the team that has everything, leads the league in doctor bills, according to head cheerleader Sparky Anderson. So scratch one alibi for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers, expected to repeat as National League West champions or at least battle for the division honors, now find themselves in a dogfight for second place with San Francisco as the Reds frolic 15½ games in front after Sunday's 3-1 victory over the Dodgers.

"This team has everything," said Dave Concepcion, who clubbed a seventh-inning homer that helped cushion the Reds' triumph, their second in a three-game series against the Dodgers. "The 1970 club had more power, but this club has more balance."

And Anderson, the Cincinnati manager, won't let anybody else's injuries detract from the rousing Reds record.

"All I hear about are injuries," Anderson said, referring to the Dodgers' rash of medical ailments. "But I guarantee you we're either even (with) or far ahead of any club with the number of injuries we've had."

Elsewhere in the NL, Philadelphia dumped Montreal 5-4; Atlanta beat San Diego 4-1; St. Louis beat Chicago 7-4 after dropping the first game 6-3; Pittsburgh took a pair from the New York Mets, winning 5-4 in 15 innings and 4-3, and San Francisco beat Houston 5-4 before losing 10-9.

Concepcion's homer, his first since May 21, and Joe Morgan's run-scoring double backed the combined seven-hit pitching of Pat Darcy and Rawley Eastwick.

Pirates 5-4, Mets 4-3

The third-place Mets started the day six games back after taking the first three games of this series but dropped to eight games off the pace with their doubleheader loss to the Pirates,

Billy Martin admit's he's unorthodox

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Martin, the controversial new manager of the New York Yankees, was asked to categorize himself.

He considered, for only a moment, which pigeon hole he wanted to occupy, then replied: "Unorthodox ... I'm unorthodox."

"I do the basics," he admitted. He is a scholar in the fundamentals of baseball. "But aside from that, I like to do what the other teams don't expect."

If there is one thing opposing teams have come to expect from the well-traveled Martin, now managing his fourth major league team, it is competition.

He built division titlists in Minnesota and Detroit, and he managed Texas to second place last season in the American League's Western Division.

On Saturday, he was named manager of the Yankees, replacing the fired Bill Virdon. And by Sunday, he had a 2-1 record after a doubleheader split with the Cleveland Indians.

"I'm very pleased with this ball club," Martin said of the team with which he starred as a second baseman from 1950 to 1957. "They're really pulling for each other, and that's something I like to see."

Martin also was asked if he was going to be a disciplinarian.

"I'm not going to start telling my ballplayers what to do," said Martin. "All I care about is what they do in the ballgame."

Butch Hartman victor in USAC contest

ODESSA, Mo. (AP) — Butch Hartman, a 4-time United States Auto Club stock car driving champion, took the lead on a super fast pit stop on a caution flag, and went on to win the 150-lap USAC race Sunday night at I-70 Speedway here.

Hartman, South Zanesville, Ohio, stopped for fuel only during the slowdown after Larry Moore, Dayton, Ohio, lost the engine in his car. Hartman added fuel while others changed tires on the I-70 halfmile paved track. Hartman then led from the 59th lap on to the finish in his 1974 Dodge.

Jack Bowsher, Springfield, Ohio, the fastest in the time trials and the leader for the first 34 laps, finished second in a Ford, and Len Gittemeier, St. Charles, Mo., a circuit newcomer, finished third in a Chevrolet.

leaders in the NL East. Richie Hebner drove in four runs with a double and a homer in the nightcap after former Met Duffy Dyer's 15th-inning homer won the opener.

Phils 5, Expos 4

Danny Ozark changed his mind, which had much to do with changing the outcome of the game. Tug McGraw wasn't supposed to pitch but he became the winning pitcher with two innings of hitless relief.

Tommy Hutton's pinch single in the 10th inning gave McGraw and the Phillies the victory.

Braves 5, Padres 1

Atlanta inched closer to fourth-place San Diego after Carl Morton pitched a six-hitter and Darrell Evans hit a tie-breaking single. The Braves are now 2½ games behind the Padres.

Cubs 6-4, Cards 3-7

Willie Davis drove in four runs with a home run and a double and Reggie Smith added a solo homer to lead St. Louis to its second-game victory. Two-run singles by Gene Hiser and pitcher Tom Dettore highlighted a six-run eighth inning that vaulted the Cubs over the Cardinals in the first game.

Giants 5-9, Astros 4-10

Milt May knocked in five runs and Jose Cruz' two-run double cracked a 6-6 tie in the sixth inning as Houston salvaged a doubleheader split with San Francisco. Gary Matthews drove in three runs with a tworun double and a single to lead the Giants to the victory in the opener.

Royals 5, A's 0

Milt Mayberry's two-run homer in the fourth inning and Brett's three-run double in the eighth gave Splitteroff all the runs he needed. With the victory, the Royals inched within nine games of the A's in the West.

Brewers 4, Orioles 1

Jim Slaton pitched a threehitter, losing a no-hit bid on a seventh-inning single by Lee May, and Bobby Mitchell homered to help the Brewers beat Baltimore, who fell 9½ games back of Boston in the East.

Angels 6, Rangers 4

Mickey Rivers' tie-breaking single and Jerry Remy's sacrifice fly in the ninth gave the Angels their victory over Texas. California's Nolan Ryan allowed only two hits and struck out nine batters — including six in a row — during the first five innings, then reinjured a groin muscle and left the game in the sixth.

Twins 7-12, White Sox 4-9

Eric Soderholm's three-run homer highlighted a four-run uprising in the first inning that carried Minnesota to its firstgame triumph, then rookie Dan Ford hit a bases-loaded double to climax an eight-run third inning that gave the Twins their second doubleheader sweep in two days over the White Sox.

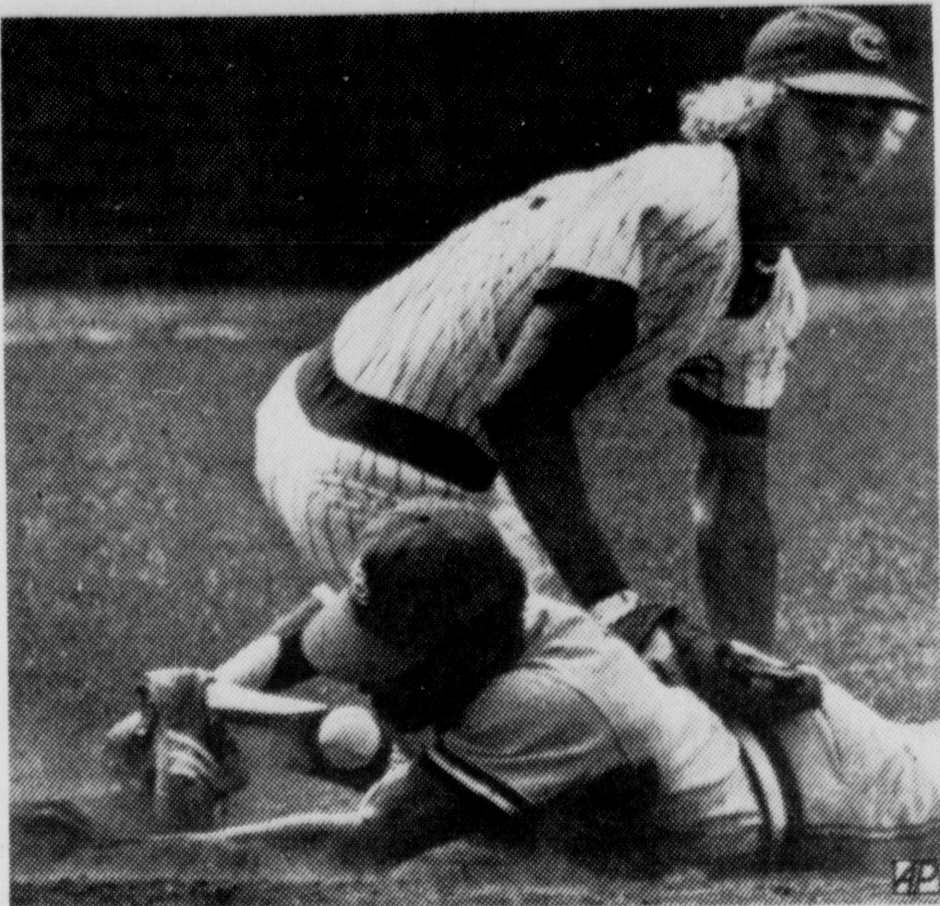

Yanks 12-2, Indians 1-3

Graig Nettles and Bobby Bonds drove in two runs apiece in a seven-run fifth inning that enabled the Yanks to breeze past Cleveland in their opener. Rico Carty's two-run homer in the eighth inning brought the Indians back in the nightcap and handed Billy Martin his first loss as the Yanks' manager.

Ohio Legion Baseball Tournament opens

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Fourteen district champion teams will compete in the Ohio Legion's 50th state baseball tournament beginning today at Ohio University in Athens.

The double elimination tourney will last five days with the state champion to be determined in the final game Friday morning, Aug. 8.

DAVIS DEFEATS THE PICKOFF — Willie Davis of the St. Louis Cardinals slides past the ball which has popped out of the glove of Chicago Cubs first baseman Pete Lacock in fifth inning at Chicago. Action came during a pickoff attempt which failed. The Cubs and Cards split a four-game weekend series.

Littler wins playoff at Westchester

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — It was a typical Gene Littler understatement, softly drawled, low-key, played-down.

"It was," mused Gene after due consideration, "a pretty fair shot."

The "pretty fair shot" in question was a hole in one.

It got him back in the golf tournament, set up a surging finish in brutal, 100-degree heat, allowed him to tie weary, wilting Julius Boros and go on to a playoff victory in the rich Westchester Classic.

"I didn't have any thought of winning the golf tournament until I got the hole in one," he said. "I really didn't figure I had any chance at all."

But, propelled by his fifth competitive ace, Littler played his last five holes in four under par. It finished off a six-underpar 66 that gave him a 271 total for 72 holes over the hot, hilly, humid, haze-covered Westchester Country Club course.

Boros, the overweight 55-year-old delight of millions of middle-aged hackers throughout the world, was obviously suffering in the hottest weather the tour has seen this year. He came from five strokes off the pace with a final 65, once had the lead alone, had a chance to clinch it with a six-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole — and missed it.

"I wanted to make that putt and close everybody else out," Boros said.

"I'd like to have won, but it's not life and death. Most people retire to play golf and fish. I do it for a living."

A victory would have made him the oldest winner the tour has ever produced.

The missed putt left him one in front. Littler had yet to play the 18th, a par five. He was short and right in two, pitched on to about five feet and made the birdie putt.

It sent them to the 15th to start a sudden death playoff. Both missed the fairway. Both missed the green. Littler was short. Boros' approach went through the green and up an embankment.

"He didn't have much of a shot," Gene said.

Littler chipped close. Boros ran his down the hill to the fringe, then three-putted for double bogey. Littler tapped in for par. Boros wiped the streaming sweat from his swarthy face, grinned a little, shook Littler's hand and ambled off.

Mounts win club tourney

The annual Parent-Child Golf Tournament was held at the Washington Country Club Sunday with the winners carding an outstanding actual score.

William Mount and his 12-year-old son, Jerry, finished with an 18-hole total of 166. Mount shot a 39-35-74 while his young partner carded a 46-46-92 for a 166 total.

Teams competed in three age groups in the club's tourney; 8-11 years of age, 12-14 and 15-over.

Medalists for the junior golfers was John Moore, who shot an 83 and teamed with his mother, Mrs. Leroy Davis for a 192 total.

In the 8-11 age group, Richard English and 11-year-old son, Eric, won the 18-hole event with an 86-122-208. Pat Riley and 11-year-old Tim shot a 116 to tie with Ralph Tate and 9-year-old Chip for the age group's nine-hole competition.

Top scores in the 12-14 age group were: Ralph Douglas and 13-year-old son, Scott with a 91-104-195, and John Batts and 14-year-old Tom with a 99-98-197.

Dr. Robert Heiny and Mark, 16, shot an 86-86-172 to win the 15-over age division. They were runners-up to the Mounts in the overall team competition.

Next Sunday at the country club, the annual husband - wife event will be held.

City tennis play continues at WSH

Four tennis matches in the Washington C.H. City Tournament were postponed due to rain Sunday, but 18 first-round matches were played.

In the Men's Championship Flight Singles competition Albert Donahue beat Hank Roszmann, 7-6 and 6-4, earning the right to meet Maurice Pfeifer in a second-round match. Pfeifer drew a first-round bye.

Earl Crosswhite had a tough time with Nelson Brownell before taking the match in three sets, 5-7, 6-4 and 6-2. Crosswhite will play the winner of the Donahue-Pfeifer match on Monday.

Steve Yambor easily defeated Mike Helfrich, 6-1 and 6-0, setting up a match with his doubles partner, Phil Snow, in a second-round play.

Doug Dye topped Brian Ream, 6-2 and 6-2, to round out the weekend's first-round matches. Dye will meet the winner of the Yambor-Snow match.

In Men's first Flight play, Ron Hanna

Ohio stars win 16-14

HERSHEY (AP) — The last thing Pete Antimarino told his Pennsylvania Big 33 team was "we can't afford mistakes."

After Ohio registered its first victory in the four-year series Saturday night, 16-14, Antimarino agreed mistakes made the difference.

"I just didn't think we would make that many big mistakes," said Antimarino, of Gateway.

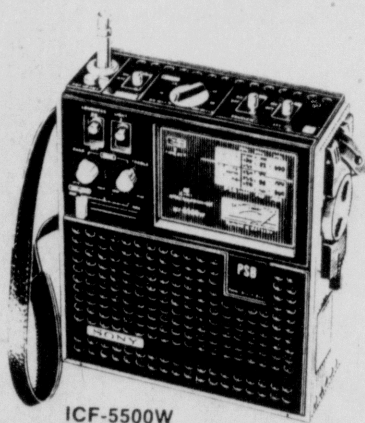

Ohio got its first touchdown after a 10-yard Pennsylvania punt on a third down play that was supposed to have been a fake. The Buckeyes' second score came after Boll Jacp of Toledo recovered a fumble at the Pennsylvania 33. Johnathon Moore of Canton scored both on runs of 20 and three yards.

Pennsylvania marched 71 and 70 yards for its scores, a one-yard plunge by Bob Watkins of Pittsburgh and a fumble recovery by Rick Zimmerman of Central Dauphin East. Larry Grazianni of New Castle kicked both extra points, but missed a first quarter field goal try from 22 yards.

Ohio had a bruising ground game, led by Harding runners John Henry Ziegler, 75 yards on 16 carries, and Jim Valentine, 70 on 12 tries. Watkins was the game's leader with 100 on 19 attempts.

Reds widen lead over L.A.

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds, the team that has everything, leads the league in doctor bills, according to head cheerleader Sparky Anderson. So scratch one alibi for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers, expected to repeat as National League West champions or at least battle for the division honors, now find themselves in a dogfight for second place with San Francisco as the Reds frolic 15½ games in front after Sunday's 3-1 victory over the Dodgers. "This team has everything," said Dave Concepcion, who clubbed a seventh-inning homer that helped cushion the Reds' triumph, their second in a three-game series against the Dodgers. "The 1970 club had more power, but this club has more balance."

And Anderson, the Cincinnati manager, won't let anybody else's injuries detract from the rousing Reds record.

"All I hear about are injuries," Anderson said, referring to the Dodgers' rash of medical ailments. "But I guarantee you we're either even (with) or far ahead of any club with the number of injuries we've had."

Elsewhere in the NL, Philadelphia dumped Montreal 5-4; Atlanta beat San Diego 4-1; St. Louis beat Chicago 7-4 after dropping the first game 6-3; Pittsburgh took a pair from the New York Mets, winning 5-4 in 15 innings and 4-3, and San Francisco beat Houston 5-4 before losing 10-9.

Concepcion's homer, his first since May 21, and Joe Morgan's run-scoring double backed the combined seven-hit pitching of Pat Darcy and Rawley Eastwick.

leaders in the NL East. Richie Hebner drove in four runs with a double and a homer in the nightcap after former Met Duffy Dyer's 15th-inning homer won the opener.

Phillies 5, Expos 4
Danny Ozark changed his mind, which had much to do with changing the outcome of the game. Tug McGraw wasn't supposed to pitch but he became the winning pitcher with two innings of hitless relief.

Tommy Hutton's pinch single in the 10th inning gave McGraw and the Phillies the victory.

Braves 5, Padres 1
Atlanta inched closer to fourth-place San Diego after Carl Morton pitched a six-hitter and Darrell Evans hit a tie-breaking single. The Braves are now 2½ games behind the Padres.

Cubs 6-4, Cards 3-7
Willie Davis drove in four runs with a home run and a double and Reggie Smith added a solo homer to lead St. Louis to its second-game victory. Two-run singles by Gene Hise and pitcher Tom Detmore highlighted a six-run eighth inning that vaulted the Cubs over the Cardinals in the first game.

Giants 5-9, Astros 4-10
Milt May knocked in five runs and Jose Cruz's two-run double cracked a 6-6 tie in the sixth inning as Houston salvaged a doubleheader split with San Francisco. Gary Matthews drove in three runs with a two-run double and a single to lead the Giants to the victory in the opener.

Royals 5, A's 0
John Mayberry's two-run homer in the fourth inning and Brett's three-run double in the eighth gave Splitter all the runs he needed. With the victory, the Royals inched within nine games of the A's in the West.

Brewers 4, Orioles 1
Jim Slaton pitched a threehitter, losing a no-hit bid on a seventh-inning single by Lee May, and Bobby Mitchell homered to help the Brewers beat Baltimore, who fell 9½ games back of Boston in the East.

Angels 6, Rangers 4
Mickey Rivers' tie-breaking single and Jerry Remy's sacrifice fly in the ninth gave the Angels their victory over Texas. California's Nolan Ryan allowed only two hits and struck out nine batters — including six in a row — during the first five innings, then reinjured a groin muscle and left the game in the sixth.

Twins 7-12, White Sox 4-9
Eric Soderholm's three-run homer highlighted a four-run uprising in the first inning that carried Minnesota to its first game triumph, then rookie Dan Ford hit a bases-loaded double to climax an eight-run third inning that gave the Twins their second doubleheader sweep in two days over the White Sox.

Yanks 12-2, Indians 1-3
Graig Nettles and Bobby Bonds drove in two runs apiece in a seven-run fifth inning that enabled the Yanks to breeze past Cleveland in their opener. Rico Carty's two-run homer in the eighth inning brought the Indians back in the nightcap and handed Billy Martin his first loss as the Yanks' manager.

The third-place Mets started the day six games back after taking the first three games of this series but dropped to eight games off the pace with their doubleheader loss to the Pirates.

Billy Martin admit's he's unorthodox

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Martin, the controversial new manager of the New York Yankees, was asked to categorize himself.

He considered, for only a moment, which pigeon hole he wanted to occupy, then replied: "Unorthodox ... I'm unorthodox."

"I do the basics," he admitted. He is a scholar in the fundamentals of baseball. "But aside from that, I like to do what the other teams don't expect."

If there is one thing opposing teams have come to expect from the well-traveled Martin, now managing his fourth major league team, it is competition.

He built division titlists in Minnesota and Detroit, and he managed Texas to second place last season in the American League's Western Division.

On Saturday, he was named manager of the Yankees, replacing the fired Bill Virdon. And by Sunday, he had a 2-1 record after a doubleheader split with the Cleveland Indians.

"I'm very pleased with this ball club," Martin said of the team with which he starred as a second baseman from 1950 to 1957. "They're really pulling for each other, and that's something I like to see."

Martin also was asked if he was going to be a disciplinarian.

"I'm not going to start telling my ballplayers what to do," said Martin. "All I care about is what they do in the ballgame."

Butch Hartman victor in USAC contest

ODESSA, Mo. (AP) — Butch Hartman, a 4-time United States Auto Club stock car driving champion, took the lead on a super fast pit stop on a caution flag, and went on to win the 150-lap USAC race Sunday night at I-70 Speedway here.

Hartman, South Zanesville, Ohio, stopped for fuel only during the slowdown after Larry Moore, Dayton, Ohio, lost the engine in his car. Hartman added fuel while others changed tires on the I-70 halfmile paved track. Hartman then led from the 59th lap on to the finish in his 1974 Dodge.

Jack Bowsher, Springfield, Ohio, the fastest in the time trials and the leader for the first 34 laps, finished second in a Ford, and Len Gittermeier, St. Charles, Mo., a circuit newcomer, finished third in a Chevrolet.

DAVIS DEFEATS THE PICKOFF — Willie Davis of the St. Louis Cardinals slides past the ball which has popped out of the glove of Chicago Cubs first baseman Pete Licoack in fifth inning at Chicago. Action came during a pickoff attempt which failed. The Cubs and Cards split a four-game weekend series.

Littler wins playoff at Westchester

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — It was a typical Gene Littler understatement, softly drawled, low-key, played-down. "It was," mused Gene after due consideration, "a pretty fair shot."

The "pretty fair shot" in question was a hole in one.

It got him back in the golf tournament, set up a surging finish in brutal, 100-degree heat, allowed him to tie weary, wilting Julius Boros and go on to a playoff victory in the rich Westchester Classic.

"I didn't have any thought of winning the golf tournament until I got the hole in one," he said. "I really didn't figure I had any chance at all."

But, propelled by his fifth competitive ace, Littler played his last five holes in four under par. It finished off a six-underpar 66 that gave him a 271 total for 72 holes over the hot, hilly, humid, haze-covered Westchester Country Club course.

Boros, the overweight 55-year-old delight of millions of middle-aged hackers throughout the world, was obviously suffering in the hottest weather the tour has seen this year. He came from five strokes off the pace with a final 65, once had the lead alone, had a chance to clinch it with a six-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole — and missed it.

"I wanted to make that putt and close everybody else out," Boros said.

"I'd like to have won, but it's not life and death. Most people retire to play golf and fish. I do it for a living."

A victory would have made him the oldest winner the tour has ever produced.

The missed putt left him one in front. Littler had yet to play the 18th, a par five. He was short and right in two, pitched on to about five feet and made the birdie putt.

It sent them to the 15th to start a sudden death playoff. Both missed the fairway. Both missed the green. Littler was short. Boros' approach went through the green and up an embankment.

"He didn't have much of a shot," Gene said.

Littler chipped close. Boros ran his down the hill to the fringe, then three-putted for double bogey. Littler tapped in for par. Boros wiped the streaming sweat from his swarthy face, grinned a little, shook Littler's hand and ambled off.

Mounts win club tourney

The annual Parent-Child Golf Tournament was held at the Washington Country Club Sunday with the winners carding an outstanding actual score.

William Mount and his 12-year-old son, Jerry, finished with an 18-hole total of 166. Mount shot a 39-35-74 while his young partner carded a 46-46-92 for a 166 total.

Teams competed in three age groups in the club's tourney; 8-11 years of age, 12-14 and 15-over.

Medalists for the junior golfers was John Moore, who shot an 83 and teamed with his mother, Mrs. Leroy Davis for a 192 total.

In the 8-11 age group, Richard English and 11-year-old son, Eric, won the 18-hole event with an 86-122-208. Pat Riley and 11-year-old Tim shot a 116 to tie with Ralph Tate and 9-year-old Chip for the age group's nine-hole competition.

Top scores in the 12-14 age group were: Ralph Douglas and 13-year-old son, Scott with a 91-104-195, and John Batts and 14-year-old Tom with a 99-98-197.

Dr. Robert Heiny and Mark, 16, shot an 86-86-172 to win the 15-over age division. They were runners-up to the Mounts in the overall team competition.

Next Sunday at the country club, the annual husband - wife event will be held.

EXPERIENCED HOME WANTS LARGE FAMILY TO LOVE

I have lots to offer the family who will take me and love me like my present owners have. My large, spacious rooms are what all home owners want, and ideal for large growing family.

I have 5 rooms and full bath upstairs; 4 rooms and bath on main floor, plus enclosed porch. A partial basement with gas forced air furnace. Storm doors and windows, and aluminum siding.

I know you will appreciate my extra large 2 or 3 car garage that can be used as workshop, so DAD can keep me in shape, and make things for the kids. Oh, yes, I also have a nice big yard.

Cox's regretted to leave me, and I would have gone with them, but I don't want to leave this nice, quiet neighborhood, so close to everything. Bring the family to see me; I love kids.

Woman To Work In Minority

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Oregon National Guard has appointed a former director of the Northwest Coalition for Minority Women as equal opportunity specialist.

Mrs. Maria Hutchins, 35, will coordinate programs for Spanish-speaking Americans in her new role and believes opening lines of communication is a key to maximizing the Guard's affirmative action program.

"Too many manpower programs spend a large portion of their funds for administration because they fail to go out into the community and work on referrals," Mrs. Hutchins said. "People need to know what resources are available to them, and about programs providing opportunity to realize an education."

In her job, Mrs. Hutchins will work with the Chicano community, which makes up the largest minority group in the state.

TEXAS TRILOGY MARKS BICENTENNIAL HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Ballet will open its 1975-76 subscription season Oct. 2 at Jesse H. Jones Hall with a Texas trilogy of ballets commemorating the Bicentennial.

Opening night will feature the company's complete "Texas trilogy," "Allen's Landing," "Moonscape" and "Galveston Suite."

"Allen's Landing," depicting the founding of Houston, will have its premiere at the end of the present season. It has choreography by acting artistic director James Clouser, a score by Texas-born Fouser, set by Houston artist Dorothy Hood and costumes by Sonja Zarek.

The second part of the trilogy will be the premiere of "Moonscape," with choreography by Jan Stockman Simmonds to an electronic score by Michael Horvit, incorporating recordings of the transmissions of sounds and voices from the Apollo Moon Landing Mission, with costumes by Miss Zarek.

"Galveston Suite," with choreography by Ruthanna Boris and music by Scott Joplin, also will be a premiere on opening night.

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Many Causes for 'Dizziness'

Whenever I make a sudden move, or when I put my head way back, I get a quick flash of dizziness. It disappears immediately. How can I find out what this means?

Mrs. B.L., N. C.

A patient's description of dizziness very often is confused with a sense of faintness, a headache or almost any other feeling in the head.

Actual dizziness should refer only to a feeling in which a person is standing still and objects rotate about him or her. Sometimes, the reverse is true. Objects stand still and the patient has a feeling that he or she is rotating or tumbling.

A self-made diagnosis for dizziness is not always disorder of the inner ear. This, indeed, does occur occasionally, but far less frequently than is commonly suspected.

When the hearing is good, other reasons should be sought. Low blood pressure, for example, is a common reason for a complaint such as yours.

When doctors ask their patients what their eating habits are, long periods of fasting may be uncovered. The result is that a combination of low, or relatively low, blood pressure, coupled with inadequate food, especially protein intake, may be responsible for the "flash" of faintness rather than true dizziness.

A complete ear examination is essential. Perhaps more important is to find out if there is any circulatory problem or neurological problem that produces this symptom.

I must emphasize that the simple causes of true dizziness far outweigh the serious ones.

I remember reading that tiny turtles are dangerous as house pets. Our twins have been begging for one. What do you think?

Mrs. T.D., La.

There is a growing awareness that baby turtles carry the bacteria, or germs, that cause salmonella infections.

These infections are far too serious to be taken casually. It has been estimated that more than 250,000 cases of salmonella poisoning directly traced to pet turtles occur each year.

The Food and Drug Administration has recently announced a complete ban on the sale of pet turtles. This is a wise law and undoubtedly will markedly reduce this unnecessary hazard.

There are other safer pets that your children will enjoy.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Dizziness." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D. (Ulcer Booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Gypsy moths spread as far as Chicago

WASHINGTON (AP) — It is about time for property owners with trees they value to prepare their defenses against one of the most destructive pests around: the gypsy moth.

This week 189 adult male moths were trapped in southwestern residential suburbs of Chicago, the westernmost location in the United States that an infestation has been detected, the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said.

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

A hand once played by Helen Sobel features magnificent defense which resulted in declarer's going down one in two hearts.

Mrs. Sobel led the king of diamonds and continued with the ace, East playing high-low to show a doubleton. Mrs. Sobel then led the jack of diamonds.

Declarer decided he could not afford to ruff either high or low in dummy, as this would almost surely result in losing a trump trick. So South discarded a club from dummy, East signaling in clubs by playing the seven.

Mrs. Sobel thereupon led the nine of clubs! East won with the king and returned a club to the ace. (Had Mrs. Sobel first led the ace and then the nine, declarer would have made the contract.)

Having won the first five tricks, Mrs. Sobel thereupon played the eight of diamonds, presenting South with a Hobson's choice.

If he ruffed high in dummy, West's jack of trumps would become the setting trick.

If he ruffed low in dummy, East would overruff with the ten to force declarer's queen. This would also establish a trump trick for West.

And finally, if South did not ruff at all in dummy but discarded a spade, East's ruff with the ten would again promote the setting trick. The uppercot, in each case, was bound to bring declarer to his knees.

The hand illustrates once more that well-conceived defensive measures can be deadly accurate at times. The handicap the defenders always labor under - because they do not see one another's cards - can be overcome in many cases by sound reasoning and close partnership cooperation.

Opening lead - king of diamonds.

A hand once played by Helen Sobel features magnificent defense which resulted in declarer's going down one in two hearts.

Mrs. Sobel led the king of diamonds and continued with the ace, East playing high-low to show a doubleton. Mrs. Sobel then led the jack of diamonds.

Declarer decided he could not afford to ruff either high or low in dummy, as this would almost surely result in losing a trump trick. So South discarded a club from dummy, East signaling in clubs by playing the seven.

Mrs. Sobel thereupon led the nine of clubs! East won with the king and returned a club to the ace. (Had Mrs. Sobel first led the ace and then the nine, declarer would have made the contract.)

Having won the first five tricks, Mrs. Sobel thereupon played the eight of diamonds, presenting South with a Hobson's choice.

If he ruffed high in dummy, West's jack of trumps would become the setting trick.

If he ruffed low in dummy, East would overruff with the ten to force declarer's queen. This would also establish a trump trick for West.

And finally, if South did not ruff at all in dummy but discarded a spade, East's ruff with the ten would again promote the setting trick. The upshot, in each case, was bound to bring declarer to his knees.

The hand illustrates once more that well-conceived defensive measures can be deadly accurate at times. The handicap the defenders always labor under - because they do not see one another's cards - can be overcome in many cases by sound reasoning and close partnership cooperation.

Gypsy moths spread as far as Chicago

WASHINGTON (AP) — It is about time for property owners with trees they value to prepare their defenses against one of the most destructive pests around: the gypsy moth.

This week 189 adult male moths were trapped in southwestern residential suburbs of Chicago, the westernmost location in the United States that an infestation has been detected, the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said.
